The new form of this Edition, and the alterations made in it, have been adopted with the sanction of Professor Kennedy, and have been submitted to his revision.

PREFACE.

This volume is intended to serve as a manual for the young composer of Greek Tragic Senarii. It presents in the first place a concise and practical account of the laws of Tragic Iambic, Trochaic, and Anapæstic Verse, and a few cursory notices of the dialect and peculiar phraseology of the Dramatic poets, to be improved and expanded by the reading and observation of the young student himself. These are followed by a graduated series of exercises: and the volume concludes with a few Greek translations. designed to furnish the beginner with specimens of the skill and tact by which the difficulties of version from one into another poetic language are overcome after a little practice. For such a purpose the best exercises of school and college are more suitable than the masterpieces of the most finished scholar of riper years. The boy who is told to imitate Euripides, Virgil or Cicero, will be rather damped than encouraged by this advice, unless he possesses that rare temperament, which thinks "it were an easy leap to pluck bright honour from the pale-fae'd moon." But when the models proposed for his imitation are the exercises done by those who are nearly of the same age and under the same circumstances as himself, he at once feels and owns that he has before him a standard which may be reached, and, if he has a proper share of emulation, he will do all in his power to reach it. And this indeed is the principal reason why the compositions of boys at public schools are in general so much superior to those written in the course of private education. Of the exercises most are intended to be done in school, under the master's eye; and a judicious master will easily understand what kind and degree of help it will be desirable for him to supply at each step, either to the class at large, or to individual boys. If, after being scanned and accented, they are likewise construed, and the tragic forms and idioms carefully noted, their usefulness will be carried to its utmost limit.

Although these exercises have been arranged with a main regard to the use of the middle forms in public schools, they will be quite as useful to that large class of private students, whose skill in composition is unequal to their general attainments in Greek scholarship.

It has not been thought necessary to add any exercises in Trochaic, very few in Anapæstic verse. The attention of the young composer ought not to be distracted by a variety of metres. When he has learned by diligent practice to write Iambic Senarii with ease and elegance, he will find no difficulty in applying his metrical skill, together with his stores of Tragic phraseology, to the Trochaic and Anapæstic rhythms.

The third Edition of this volume has been prepared for the press by the care of George Preston, Esq. Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge.

INTRODUCTION.

I. ON RHYTHM.

- 1. Rhythm is the regular succession of parts of time, which are technically called Times.
- 2. A stronger Time is called Arsis, a weaker Time Thesis.
- 3. A syllable in Arsis is said to have an Ictus or stress of pronunciation (') (not to be confounded with the acute accent).
- 4. Rhythms which begin with Arsis are called deceeding: as Shé, with áll a mónarch's príde, Félt them in her bósom glów; Rúshed to báttle, foúght, and díed; Dýing, húrl'd them át the fóe.

- 5. Rhythms which begin with Thesis are called uscending: as
  - O Thoú that dry'st the mourner's tear, How dark this world would be, If when deceived and wounded here, We could not fly to Thee.

II. ON QUANTITY.

- A short syllable (♥) is considered equal to one lime.
  - 2. A long syllable  $(-) = (\bigcirc) = \text{two Times}$ .

III. ON FEET.

- 1. Certain limited successions of Arsis and Thesis are called Feet. There are Feet containing from two to four syllables, from two to eight Times. The Foot of two Times ( $\sim$ ) is called Pyrrichius.
- 2. The Feet with which we are now concerned, are those of 3 (τρίχρονοι) and 4 (τετράχρονοι) Times: as,

(a)	τρίχρονοι	-0	Trochæus
` ′	. , .	U-	Iambus
		000	Tribrachys,
(b)	τετράχρονοι		Spondæus
` '	, , ,	-00	Dactylus
		UU-	Anapæstus.

Note.  $(-\smile-)$  is called Creticus, a foot of five Times.

IV. ON IAMBIC RHYTHM.

- 1. The Iambic is an ascending Rhythm, and the converse of the Trochaic, which is descending.
- 2. Iambic and Anapæstic Trochaic Rhythms may be measured either by single Feet, or by Διποδίαι, Dipodies, (Double-feet). Each διποδία is called a Metre (μέτρον).

Note. In the Dactylic and other measures one foot makes a Metre.

	3. He	ence
a	Rhythm	of 2	Feet = 1	Metre, is called	Monometer,
		4	= 2	Metres,	Dimeter,
٠.		6	= 3		Trimeter,
		8	= 4		Tetrameter,
	&c.	&c.	= &	C	&c.

4. A poetical Rhythm is called a Verse.

V. CATALEXIS. (κατάληξις.)

- 1. An Acatalectic Rhythm is one which has its Metres complete in their number of syllables.
- 2. A Catalectic Rhythm wants one syllable to complete its Metres.
- 3. A Brachycatalectic Rhythm wants two syllables to complete its Metres.
- 4. An Hypercatalectic Rhythm has one syllable beyond its complete Metres.

VI. TRAGIC IAMBIC VERSE.

- 1. The Verse chiefly used in the Dialogue of Greek Tragedy, is called, as measured by Metres, Tragicus Iambicus Trimeter Acatalecticus:—or, as measured by Feet, Tragicus Iambicus Senarius: having three perfect metres = six feet (seni pedes).
  - 2. In its pure form it consists of 3 Diiambi = 6 Iambi; as ο παισι κλείνος Οιδιιπούς | καλουμένος.

(the last syllable being always regarded as long.)

3. But, in order to give more strength, weight, and variety to the Rhythm, the Tragic poets admitted a long instead of a short syllable in the first Thesis of each Metre; or, in other words,

A Spondee may be substituted for an Iambus in the 1st, 3rd and 5th Feet:—as

 $\bar{a}$ λλ'  $\bar{a}\sigma^{\dagger}$ φ $\bar{a}$ λε $\bar{i}$ | $\bar{a}$  τ $\bar{\eta}$ νδ'| αν $\bar{o}$ ρ|θ $\bar{\omega}$ σ $\bar{o}$ ν| π $\bar{o}$ λ $\bar{i}$ ν.|

4. The Iambus ( $\bigcirc$ -) may be resolved (excepting in the last Foot) into the Tribrach ( $\bigcirc\bigcirc\bigcirc$ ), but care must be taken not to make the Verse weak or inharmonious by too large a number of short syllables. Examples:

λἴμἕναϊ δὲ Ναῦ πλῖετἶον ἔκ |πληρῶν| πλᾶτηῖ. |" δ΄ γᾶρ |" μᾶκᾶρῖ |" σοῦκ |" ὄνεῖ |δῖζῶ| τὕχᾶς. |" |" |" δε μεν |" λέγοῦ στν ὅτι |" θέοῖς |" έχθῖστ |" συν |" πρός οῖκ |" δυν εῦ |" θῦνον τὰς ενὰ |" λίταν |" πλᾶτην. |" τοῖαῦ τὰ μεν |" τάδ |" έσ ττν |" αμ|" φοτερὰ |" μενεῖν. |"

Note. The Tribrach in the 5th foot is not very frequent.

5. The Spondee (--) in the 1st and 3rd Feet may be resolved into a Dactyl  $(- \cup \cup)$ ; as

Note. The Arsis is on the 2nd syllable of a Dactyl or Tribrach in Iambic Rhythms.

6. The Spondee in the 1st Foot may be resolved into an Anapæst ( $\circ \circ$ ); as ϊκέτευ ομέν  $\sigma$  σε παν τές οι δε προσ τρόποι.

7. When a Proper Name occurs which could not otherwise find a place in the Verse, an Anapæst is allowed in any Foot excepting the last; as

VII. CÆSURA.

1. By Casura in Verse we understand the pause occasioned by the close of a Word before the close of a Foot.

Note. The pause occasioned by the close of a Word and Foot at the same time is called Dialysis.

- 2. Hence in Iambic Verse, a Cæsura can only occur after a syllable in Thesis.
- 3. There are two principal Cæsuras of the Jambic Trimeter: viz.
- (a) the Penthemimeral after the Thesis of the 3rd Foot: as
  - ὧ τέκνα Κάδμου<sub>||</sub>τοῦ πάλαι νέα τροφή.
- (b) the Hephthemimeral, after the Thesis of the 4th Foot: as ίκτηρίοις κλάδοισιν έξεστεμμένοι.

Note. Elision after the Thesis does not destroy the Cæsura.

4. One or other of these Cæsuras is considered generally essential to the perfection of the Tragic Senarius. Verses without Cæsura sometimes occur, and may be justified by various reasons: but they should be avoided by a young composer.

Note. Article, Preposition, and the Conjunction καί must always be considered as one with the following word: so that they do not constitute a good Cæsura when in the Thesis of the 3rd or 4th foot.

5. The Cesura may however be sometimes neglected without inelegance in cases where before the Thesis of the 4th Foot a syllable is elided, which, had it not been elided, would itself have formed that Thesis. This is called Quasi-cæsura; as $\tilde{\psi}$  στέμματα ξήνασ  $\tilde{\theta}$  ἐπέκλωσεν  $\tilde{\theta}$  εά.

ένὸς μὲν οὖν μόχθου σ' ἀπαλλάξας ἔχω.

6. If there be a Casura after the Thesis of the 5th Foot, (that is to say, if the line end with a Cretic foot, or words so joined as to form a Cretic) the Tragic Poets make that Thesis short, or (in other words) they avoid a Spondee in that place. Hence such Rhythms as the following must be avoided:

ώς δή δέδηγμαι την έμαυτοῦ καρδίαν.

- 7. To the foregoing Rule there are two principal exceptions: viz.
- (a) When the Thesis of the 5th Foot is formed by a monosyllable capable of beginning a sentence: as, an article or preposition before its case, a conjunction or adverb closely connected with the next word.
- (b) When the Arsis of the 5th Foot is formed by a monosyllable incapable of beginning a sentence, as,  $\gamma \acute{a} \rho$ ,  $ο \~{v} \nu$ ,  $\delta \acute{\eta}$ ,  $\mu \acute{e} \nu$ ,  $\check{a} \nu$ ,  $\tau ο \iota$ ,  $\mu ο \iota$ ,  $\nu \iota \nu$ , and other enclitics.

Hence the following rhythms are admissible:

- (a) οὐκ οὐδὲν ὑγιὲς ἔτι λέγω τῶν ὀργίων, κάλλιστον ἢμαρ εἰσιδεῖν ἐκ χείματος. πεισόμεθ' ὅταν δὲ μὴ καλῶς οὐ πείσομαι. μητροκτονοῦντας κυρία δ' ἤδ' ἡμέρα.
- (δ) ἀλλ' ώς τάχιστα παίδες ύμεῖς μὲν βάθρων.
   οἶόν τέ μοι τάσδ' ἐστὶ θνητοῖς γὰρ γέρα.
   ϵἴ μοι λέγοις τὴν ὄψιν εἴποιμ' ἂν τότε.
   πῶς φὴς τίν' εἶπας μῦθον αὖθίς μοι φράσον.

IX. RULES FOR THE MANAGEMENT OF RHYTHM.

Avoid  $(\bigcirc\bigcirc\bigcirc)$  after  $(\bigcirc\bigcirc\bigcirc)$  or  $(-\bigcirc\bigcirc)$ .

Avoid more than two Feet of three syllables in the same Verse.

Avoid the frequency of Feet of three syllables in consecutive Verses.

Avoid generally a Dialysis with stop after the 3rd Foot.

Use sparingly a Dialysis with stop after the 2nd Foot.

Use sparingly the Dialysis with stop after the  $5 \, \mathrm{th}$  Foot.

Avoid generally a Casura with stop after the Thesis of the 5th Foot.

X. TRAGIC TROCHAIC VERSE.

1. The Trochaic verse used in Tragedy is Tetrameter Catalectic (4 Ditrochees wanting one syllable) consisting in its pure form of seven Trochees and a syllable, as οξύ γαρ βό ής ἄ κοῦσάν | Αργός εξε γειρε ται.

- 2. In certain places other feet are admissible.
- (a) In the even places Spondees may be substituted, as πᾶς ἄΙνῆρ κᾶν | δοῦλὸς ἢ τἴς | ῆδε Ιταῖ τὸ | φῶς ὅΙρῶν. καῖ θὕ ρᾶς ε |χῶν ἄΙκλῆστοῦς | τῶ θελΙοντῖ | δῆμὅΙτῶν. οῦκ εν Τιλί |ῷ τἄδ εστῖν | ᾶλλ εν Αργεί |ᾶ χθῦν Ιῖ. οῦ και κοῦ δ' ῶσ |περ πε φῦνκᾶσ | οῦπὸτ ε ῦ πραξ εῖεν αν.

(b) The Spondees in these places may be resolved into Anapæsts, as αλλά μετάβουλ[ευσό μεσθά | τουτό δ' ου κά[λως λε γείς. τις πότ' εν πύ[λαισύ θορύβος | και λό γων ά[κοσμί α. ου γάρ ητίς | Έλλαδ' αυτοίς | Φρυξί διελύ μηνά το.

(c) A Tribrach is allowed in any foot: (but since in Tragedy the Tribrach is only once found in the 7th foot it is practically excluded from that place), as φονιδνί εμβά λῶν τον αυτον ουκ αἰποισε ται μοιρον.

οῦχὶ Μενελε ω τρό ποισι | χρωμεθὶ οιστε ον ταὶδε.
εξίμεν, πά | τέρα δεὶ μοι δος | εισιίδειν ουκ | αν τύχοις.
εῦ λεὶγεις σω | ζει σεὶ στονεσις | αλλά | βαιν εί | σω δο μων.
προς θεὶων τὶ | προς τάδὶ ειπε | τόδε γάρὶ ειδε | ναι θεὶλω.
οῦνεκὶ οῦ πότ | ημεὶλησε | παιδός αποδίδιωσι μοι.
σῦ δε τὶ τῶδ εις | εριν αἰφιξαι | Μενελείως βὶ α τὰ αἰγεις.

3. When a proper name occurs which cannot otherwise be admitted, a Dactyl may be put in any foot save the 4th and 7th, as εῖς ἄρ<sup>2</sup> Ιφτητεν εῖἄν Έλτης | νοστός την πτηρωμείνος. Τῦνδάρτιων λτηνεῖς τίσως σοι | θτημττίρος θτημουμείνος.

Occasionally proper names otherwise admissible have this license, as  $\sigma \bar{\nu}_{\gamma \gamma \delta} |_{\nu \bar{\nu} \nu} \tau^{\dot{\nu}} \in |_{\mu \bar{\eta} \nu} \Pi_{\nu \lambda} \tilde{\nu}_{\delta} |_{\bar{\eta} \nu} \tau^{\dot{\nu}} |_{\tau \bar{\nu} \nu} \tau_{\bar{\lambda}} |_{\delta \bar{\nu}} \tilde{\nu}_{\nu} |_{\delta \bar{\nu} \bar{\nu} \nu} \tau_{\bar{\lambda}} |_{\mu \bar{\nu} \nu}$

4. Dialysis.

The fourth foot must always end simultaneously with the end of a word; and if this Dialysis occurs after a monosyllabic word, such word must not be intimately connected with the following one (see VII. 4, note), as προσκυνῶ σ', ἄναξ, τρόποισι βαρβάροισι προσπίτνων οἴχομαι τάλαινα, δάκρυόν τ' συκέτι στέγει.

but ἀλλ' ἀφαιρεῖσθαι βία τὰ χρήματ' εἰπόντας τοδι. ἀξία γοῦν εἶ τόκου τε κοῦσα τοιοῦτον τόκον.

are inadmissible in Tragedy.

The learner will do well to observe that if to an tambic Trimeter having the penthemimeral Cæsura we prefix three (or four) syllables comprising Arsis + Thesis + Arsis, there results the Trochaic verse of Tragedy, as

5. When there is Dialysis after the second foot, that foot must not be either Spondee or Anapæst, as πρὸς σοφοῦ γὰρ | ἀνδρὸς ἀσκεῖν σώφρον' εὐοργησίαν. ώς ἐσεῖδον | ἀσμένη σε μονάδ' ἔχουσ' ἐρημίαν.

εξισώσαι | τοὺς πολίτας κάφελεῖν τὰ δείματα is inadmissible.

But if the second foot end in a monosyllable intimately connected with the word that follows, this law does not apply, as οὖκ ἐῶν ἢ ξυγκελεύ ων παῖδ' ἄγειν θανουμένην.

Or consider the first three and a half feet as if they were the end of an Iambic Trimeter governed by the rules for the Pes Creticus.

The few exceptions (strangely all in one passage, Eur. Ion, 515, 517, 537, 560) hardly warrant a deviation from this rule.

6. Since every Tragic Trochaic deprived of its beginning Arsis + Thesis + Arsis is identical with a Trimeter Iambic, the end of a Trochaic line must equally be governed by the Rule for the Pes Creticus.

Thus

ες τε τάρχαῖον νόμισμα καὶ τὸ καινὸν χρυσίον is inadmissible in Tragedy.

XII. ON ANAPÆSTIC RHYTHM.

- 1. The Anapæstic verse of Tragedy is Dimeter Acatalectic, consisting of two dipodiæ or four feet, which may be Anapæsts, Dactvls or Spondees.
- (a) The most frequent exception is where a short syllable at the beginning of the second dipodia is part of the last word in the first, as

παῖ, τοῦ Φρυγιοῖ | ὅ Τελεῦ τᾶντος

- Each system ends with a Catalectic verse called Versus Paræmiacus, not subject to the rule for Dialysis.
- (a) The Catalectic foot (which must be supposed a Spondee) is generally preceded by an Anapæst, so that the Paræmiac has a Dactylic rhythm, as πεμπεί! πάραβα στι Ερίνυν Θεός ων! θνητοίς | άγορευ! ονάρ η Ιμέροφαν! τον άλαι!νει.

4. Occasionally there is introduced (especially before the Paræmiac) a Monometer or Base, as > νῦξ η δε βἄρος πῶς σε δὰ κρῦσῶ βὅτὰ καῖ λεῖαν.

- 5. A Dactyl must not precede an Anapæst (for this would cause an unrhythmical sequence of short syllables), nor is it elegant for a Dactyl to follow a Spondee in the same dipodia.
- 6. Sometimes a long vowel or diphthong at the end of a word is shortened before a vowel beginning the next, as οῖχἔταϊ ανδρων.

7. By the synapheia of the Anapæstic system the last syllable of each verse is not common, but must be scanned relatively to the next<sup>1</sup>; so that the whole system forms a continuous line having its last syllable only common, as in the following:

βάλε, πρόσπτυξον σῶμα· θανόντος δ' ώς ἐπὶ τύμβω καταθρήνησον. φεῦ φεῦ· δεινὸν τόδ' ἐγηρύσω

καὶ θεοῖσι κλυειν· ἔνι γὰρ κάμοὶ τοῖς τ' οὐρανίδαις οἶκτοι θνητῶν πολυμόχθων.

XIII. PRINCIPAL RULES OF TRAGIC PROSODY.

- 1. Datives Plural in oιs and αις may take ι, as λόγοισι.
- 2.  $\nu$  ἐφελκυστικόν may be added before consonants for the sake of metre as well as before vowels. More seldom s, as οὖτω(s); κ, as οὖ(κ) and analogous to οὖκέτι, μηκέτι.
- 3. Hiatus of vowels is not allowable, excepting (sometimes) in the words  $\epsilon \hat{v}$  and  $\tau i$ , as  $\epsilon \hat{v}$  if  $\delta \theta i$ ,  $\tau i$  ov.
- Elision of diphthongs does not take place, but only that of short vowels. Except οἴμὶ ὡς for οἴμοι ὡς.
- Obs. 1. The  $\iota$  of the Cases is not elided, as  $\tau'$ ,  $\check{\alpha}\pi\circ\lambda\iota$ ; nor of  $\check{\sigma}\tau\iota$ ,  $\pi\epsilon\rho\dot{\iota}$ . The vowel  $\upsilon$  never suffers elision.
- Obs. 2. The article is never elided, but undergoes Crasis.
- 5. Prodelision (the elision or absorption of a short vowel beginning a word, after a long vowel or diphthong ending the word before it) is frequent in Tragedy, as μη 'ξ for μη ἐξ—μολῶ 'γώ for μολῶ ἐγώ—οἴου 'τράφης for οἴου ἐτράφης—μου 'φέλης for μου ἀφέλης—τύχη 'γαθῆ for τύχη ἀγαθῆ, &c. The limits which separate Prodelision from Crasis are not very accurately definable.

Note. A vowel ending a verse is sometimes elided before another at the beginning of the next verse, but only when the last Arsis is long, as εὖ σοι φρονήσας εὖ λέγω· τὸ μανθάνειν δ΄ ηδιστον εὖ λέγοντος, εἰ κέρδος λέγοι.

6. Crasis is the coalition of two words into one, when the former ends and the latter begins with a vowel or diphthong.

The general laws of Crasis are the same as those of contraction (which are given in Greek Grammars), but with some exceptions.

The principal Crases of Greek Tragedy are as follows:

(a) Crasis of the Article,

 $o + \alpha = \bar{\alpha}$ , as  $\delta \dot{\alpha} \nu \dot{\eta} \rho = \dot{\alpha} \nu \dot{\eta} \rho$ ,  $\tau \dot{\alpha} \dot{\alpha} \lambda \lambda o = \tau \ddot{\alpha} \lambda \lambda o$ .

 $o + \epsilon = ov$ , as  $\delta \epsilon \pi \iota \beta ov \lambda \epsilon \nu \omega \nu = ov \pi \iota \beta ov \lambda \epsilon \nu \omega \nu$ ,  $\tau \delta \epsilon \gamma - \kappa \omega \mu \iota ov = \tau ov \gamma \kappa \omega \mu \iota ov$ .  $ov \kappa = \delta \epsilon \kappa$ .

o + η = η, as τὸ ἡμέτερον = θἡμέτερον.

o + ι = οι, as τὸ ἱμάτιον = θοἰμάτιον.

o + o = ov, as  $\tau o \tilde{o} vo\mu a = \tau o \tilde{v} vo\mu a$ .

o + v = ov, as  $\tau \hat{o} \ \tilde{v} \delta \omega \rho = \theta o \tilde{v} \delta \omega \rho$ .

o + aι = aι or a, as το αξμa = θαξμα, το αξτιον = τ ατιον.

ο + αυ = αυ, as ὁ αὐτός = αὐτός, τὸ αὐτό = ταὐτό, often ταὐτόν.

 $\eta + \epsilon = \eta$ , as  $\dot{\eta}$  εὐσέβεια =  $\dot{\eta}$ υσέβεια.

 $\eta + \epsilon = \eta, \text{ as } \tau \hat{\eta} \quad \hat{\epsilon} \mu \hat{\eta} = \tau \hat{\eta} \mu \hat{\eta}.$

ov + a = a, as τοῦ ἀνδρός = τἀνδρός, τοῦ αὐτοῦ = ταὐτοῦ.

 $ov + (\epsilon - o - v) = ov$ , as τοῦ ϵμοῦ = τοὖμοῦ, τοῦ ονϵίδους = τοὖνϵίδους, τοῦ ὕδατος = θοὔδατος.

ov +  $\eta = \eta$ , as  $\tau \circ \hat{\eta} \lambda i \circ v = \theta \hat{\eta} \lambda i \circ v$ .

ov + ov = ov, as  $\tau \circ \hat{v}$   $\circ \hat{v} \rho \alpha v \circ \hat{v} = \tau \circ \hat{v} \rho \alpha v \circ \hat{v}$ .

The contraction is marked with a coronis ('), as  $\tau \alpha \dot{\nu} \tau \dot{\rho}$ , but with a rough breathing where an aspirate remains, unless it be absorbed in an aspirate letter, as  $\dot{\alpha} \nu \dot{\eta} \rho$ , but  $\theta o \dot{\nu} \delta \omega \rho$ .

$$\omega + \alpha = \omega$$
, as  $\tilde{\omega}$   $\tilde{\alpha} v \alpha \xi = \tilde{\omega} v \alpha \xi$ .

$$ω + α = α$$
, as  $τω̂$  ἄνακτι = τἄνακτι,  $τω̂$  αὐτ $ω̂ = ταὐτω̂$ .

$$\omega + (\epsilon - o) = \omega, \text{ as } \tau \hat{\omega} \quad \vec{\epsilon} \mu \hat{\omega} = \tau \vec{\omega} \mu \hat{\omega}, \quad \tau \hat{\omega} \quad \vec{o} \nu \vec{\epsilon} i \rho \omega = \tau \vec{\omega} \nu \vec{\epsilon} i \rho \omega.$$

 $\omega + \iota = \psi$ , as  $\tau \hat{\psi}$  imative =  $\theta \hat{\psi} \mu \alpha \tau i \psi$ .

αι or οι + α = α, as οἱ ἄνδρες = ἄνδρες, αἱ ἀρεταί = άρεταί, οἱ αὐτοί = αὐτοί.

or  $+ \epsilon = ov$ , as of  $\dot{\epsilon}\mu o i = ov\mu o i$ , of  $\dot{\epsilon}\nu = ov\nu$ .

 $a\iota + \epsilon = a\iota$ , as ai ἐκκλησία $\iota = ai$ κκλησία $\iota$ .

a + (o - ω - oι - oυ) = ω, as τὰ οπλα = θωπλα, τὰ ωνια - τωνια, τὰ οἰζυρά = τωζυρά, τὰ οὐράνια = τωράνια.

Obs. The Crasis of the Article with ἔτερος is peculiar.

Sing. ἄτερος, άτέρα, θἄτερον, θατέρου, θατέρω, θατέρω. Plur. ἄτεροι, ἄτεραι, θἄτερα.

(b) Crasis of καί.

Before  $\alpha$ ,  $\alpha\iota$ ,  $\alpha\nu$ ,  $\epsilon\iota$ ,  $\epsilon\nu$ ,  $\iota$ ,  $\eta$ ,  $o\iota$ ,  $o\nu$ , v,  $\omega$ , the crasis of καί is formed by striking out  $\alpha\iota$ , as κάγαθός, καὶσχύνη, καὐτός, κεἰς, κεὐθύς, χίλεως, χή, χοί, κοὐ, χὑπέρ, χῷτινι. But καὶ εἶτα = κἆτα.

καὶ +  $\epsilon$  = κα, or  $\chi$ α, as καὶ ἔτι = κἄτι, καὶ ἕτερος, χἄτερος. καὶ +  $\epsilon$  = κω, or  $\chi$ ω, as καὶ οἱξύ = κωἰξύ, καὶ ὅσα =  $\chi$ ώσα.

 $\iota$  only appears in a contraction when it has existed in the second syllable, as  $\tau \hat{\alpha} \sigma \chi o s = \tau \hat{o}$  aloxos, but  $\kappa \check{\alpha} \tau \iota = \kappa \alpha \hat{\iota}$   $\check{\epsilon} \tau \iota$ .

A very few instances of double Crasis are found, as  $yo\dot{v}v = \kappa \alpha \dot{i} + \dot{o} + \dot{e}v$ .

- (c) The few instances of Crasis which occur in other words, follow for the most part the rules already given under (a): as
- $\dot{\epsilon}$ γωὶ οἶδα =  $\dot{\epsilon}$ γῷδα, τοι ἄρα = τἄρα, τοι ἄν = τἄν, μοι  $\dot{\epsilon}$ στί = μονοτί.
- 7. Synecphonesis (or the metrical coalition of two syllables in different words without a formal crasis) sometimes occurs in Tragedy. The principal instances are  $\hat{\eta}$  où,  $\mu\hat{\eta}$  où,  $\hat{\epsilon}\pi\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\iota}$  où,  $\mu\hat{\eta}$   $\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\iota}\delta\hat{\epsilon}\nu\alpha\iota$ ,  $\hat{\epsilon}\gamma\hat{\omega}$  où,  $\hat{\epsilon}\gamma\hat{\omega}$   $\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\iota}\mu\iota$ .
- 8. Synizesis (or the metrical coalition of two syllables in the same word without a formal contraction) sometimes occurs: for instance $\widehat{\epsilon \omega}$ , as  $\pi \acute{o} \lambda \widehat{\epsilon \omega}$ s,  $^{\prime} A \mu \phi \iota \acute{a} \rho \widehat{\epsilon \omega}$ s,  $- \widehat{\nu \omega}$ , as  $^{\prime} E \rho \iota \nu \acute{\nu} \widehat{\omega} \nu - \widehat{\epsilon a}$ , as  $^{\prime} A \chi \iota \lambda \lambda \widehat{\epsilon a}$ ,  $- \widehat{\nu o} \iota$ , as  $\delta \widehat{\nu o} \widehat{\iota} \nu$ . But the most frequent example is  $\theta \widehat{\epsilon o}$ s, which may be used as a monosyllable in any of its cases.

- 9. A short vowel becomes long before
  - (a) a double consonant.
  - (b) two mute consonants.
  - (c) two liquid consonants.
  - (d) a liquid before a mute consonant.
  - (e) βλ, except βλαστάνω and its kindred words, βμ, βν, γλ, (except with γλῶσσα), γμ, γν, δν.
  - (f)  $\sigma$  with any other consonant.
- 10. A short vowel becomes common before  $\beta \rho$ ,  $\gamma \rho$ ,  $\delta \mu$ ,  $\delta \rho$ ,  $\theta \lambda$ ,  $\theta \mu$ ,  $\theta \nu$ ,  $\theta \rho$ ,  $\kappa \lambda$ ,  $\kappa \mu$ ,  $\kappa \nu$ ,  $\kappa \rho$ ,  $\pi \lambda$ ,  $\pi \mu$ ,  $\pi \nu$ ,

 $\pi\rho$ ,  $\tau\lambda$ ,  $\tau\mu$ ,  $\tau\nu$ ,  $\tau\rho$ ,  $\phi\lambda$ ,  $\phi\mu$ ,  $\phi\nu$ ,  $\phi\rho$ . But a short vowel at the end of a word is seldom made long before any of these positions except  $\phi\rho$ .

11. A short vowel in Arsis at the end of a word may be lengthened by an initial  $\dot{\rho}$ ; as είς έμε βέπον.

- 12. The interjections φεῦ, αἴαι, ἔα, εἶεν, ἴου, sometimes occur extra metrum.
- 13.  $\Pi \tau \delta \lambda \iota s$  may be used for  $\pi \delta \lambda \iota s$  to lengthen a preceding short vowel.
- 14. I is common in λίαν, ἰάομαι, ἰατρός, ὄρνις, long in comparatives, as κάλλτον.
  - 15. Οι is common in ποιέω, τοιόσδε, τοιούτος, οίος.

XIV. DIALECT AND PHRASEOLOGY.

- 1. The Tragic dialogue exhibits a measured and severe dignity of style, equally removed from the colloquial looseness of Comedy and the daring excursiveness of Lyric poetry. Among many features common to a good prose style, it also contains numerous forms and phrases of a purely poetic character.
- 2. The Dialect is the Middle Attic, like that of Thucydides. The Augment must therefore be always kept, the forms in  $\sigma\sigma$  preferred to those in  $\tau\tau$ , and the contracted forms must be used.
- 3. Nevertheless some Ionic forms are used in Tragedy, as ξείνος, μοῦνος, αἰεί, Θρῆκες, μέσσος, ζοή, ἔρος, οὔνομα, γούνατα, δουρί, πολλός, εἰλίσσω, εἴνεκα, the uncontracted forms νόος, ρέεθρον, εὔροος, the gen. εος for εως, as πόλεος. (These occur chiefly in narratives of an Epic character, in which also the augment is sometimes omitted.)

- 4. And some Doric forms: as 'Αθάνα, δαρός, εκατι, ναμερτής, κυναγός, ποδαγός, λοχαγός, ὁπαδός, κάρανον, ἄραρε, γάμορος, γάποτος. Also the Æolic forms πεδάρσιος, πεδάρος, πεδάζημιος, μάσσων.
- 5. The Tragic poets avoid the use of diminutives, even though the diminutive sense have disappeared, as in  $\theta\eta\rho\dot{}$ ov.
  - 6. Note these forms, as belonging to Tragedy.
    - (a) εως for αος, ας λεώς for λαός, νεώς for καός, ἴλεως for ἴλαος, Μενέλεως for Μενέλαος.
    - (b) Navs. Gen. ναός, νηός or νεώς. Dat. ναί or νηί. Acc. ναῦν, νῆα or νέα. Plu. Nom. νᾶες or νῆες. Gen. ναῶν, νηῶν or νεῶν. Dat. ναυσί. Acc. νῆας, νέας or ναῦς.

  - (s) εὐθύς and εὐθύ, μέχρις and μέχρι, αὖθις and αὖτις.
- 7. The Rules of Attic Syntax are given in any good Greek Grammar. Note as peculiarly Tragic:—

of place, mostly with an idea of proceeding from, as  $\theta \nu \rho \widehat{\omega} \nu$ , δόμων.

of cause, as τάλαινα τησδε συμφοράς.--

after adverbs, as

ποῦ γης; ποὶ γνώμης; οὕτω θράσους.

after verbs of obtaining,  $\tau \nu \gamma \chi \acute{a} \nu \omega$ ,  $\kappa \nu \rho \widetilde{\omega}$ ,  $\mathring{a} \nu \tau \widetilde{\omega}$ ; but if a thing and person are expressed, then accusative of thing and genitive of person. So also with  $\mathring{a} \kappa o \acute{\nu} \omega$ ,  $\kappa \lambda \acute{\nu} \omega$ .

(b) ACCUSATIVE.

Cognate, as εύδειν ύπνον, κάμπτειν έδρας.

In apposition to sentence, as έθυσεν αύτοῦ παίδα, ἐπωδον Θρηκίων αημάτων. κτενῶ σε, ποινὰς τοῦ πατρός.

The adverbial accus.  $\vec{\alpha}\rho\chi\gamma\nu$  always stands at the beginning of a line.

(c) GENDER.

The masculine form of the dual is generally used in speaking of women.

A female speaking of herself in the Plural Number uses the Masculine Gender.

(d) ADJECTIVES.

Plural for sing., as ἄσημα δ' ήμιν ήτις ἐστὶν ή νόσος.

Often used adverbially, as ἄλεκτρα γηράσκουσαν.

Verbals in τέος and τός very common.

Compounded with a privative govern a genitive, as ἄλυπος ἄτης, ἄψαυστος ἔγχους, and are used by Oxymoron with the substantives from which they are derived to reverse the idea which would otherwise be suggested, as βίος ἀβίωτος, ὑμέναιος ἀνυμέναιος, μοῦσα ἄμουσος.

Limit a substantive used metaphorically, as αἴετος πτηνὸς κύων.

Are used proleptically (ὧστε εἶναι), as εὖφημον, ὧ τάλαινα, κοίμησον στόμα.

With Article, for a Substantive, as  $\tau \hat{o}$  συνετόν for σύνεσις,  $\tau \hat{o}$  θηλυ for γυναῖκες.

(e) PRONOUNS.

őδε for adverb; őδ' εἰμί, 'here I am.'  $\mathring{a}v\mathring{\eta}\rho$  őδε, 'L' άμός or άμός for έμὸς and ήμέτερος.

τις, some one = many a one = some person or thing of importance = some considerable part.

αὐτὸς αὐτόν frequently in juxta-position.

οδος or οδός  $\tau\epsilon = \tau oιούτος ωστε, 'able to.'$ ταῦτα, 'in this way.'

καὶ ταῦτα, 'and that too.'

Emphatic positions, as τούμον αὐτης σῶμα, πόσιν τον ἀμόν.

(f)

The use of Conjunctions and other Particles forms too large a subject to be here introduced, but must be carefully noted and imitated by the young composer, with the aid of a good Greek Grammar, and the Tragic Indices. He will find that very few sentences in Tragedy begin without some connecting particle or particles, and by diligent observation he will discover the shades of meaning in which they are severally used, and learn where and how to introduce them in his own compositions.

The following Figures of Speech are in frequent use:

(a) PLEONASM.

αὖθις αὖ—αὖθις αὖ πάλιν—έκόντες οὐδ' ἄκοντες—γνωτὰ κοὐκ ἄγνωτα—ἐν ὀφθαλμοῖς ὁρῶν, ἀς.

(b) ELLIPSIS.

Πάρις γὰρ οὖτε συντελής πόλις—πατρός τε κάπὸ μητρός, νύκτα καὶ καθ' ήμέραν.

Frequently of  $\mu \acute{\epsilon} \nu$ , as  $\phi \acute{\epsilon} \lambda \omega s$ ,  $\kappa \alpha \lambda \widetilde{\omega} s$   $\delta'$  o $\widetilde{v}$ .

(c) PERIPHRASIS.

Verb with object instead of a bare Verb, as μνήμην ξχειν for μεμνησθαι, σπουδην θέσθαι for σπεύδειν, μάχην ποιεῖσθαι for μάχεσθαι, &c.

εἰμί with participle, as κακῶν οὐδέν ἐστ' ἀπόν—ἀλλὰ τοῦσδ' ἔσται μέλον.

Substantives: as θρήνων όδυρμοί—ήλίου κύκλος — γής πέδον—οὐρανοῦ ἀναπτυχαί—τειχέων περιπτυχαί—πύργων στεφάνωμα—ὧ κοινὸν αὐτάδελφον Ἰσμήνης κάρα—᾿Ασιατίδος γής σχήμα—ὧ πρόσωπον εὐγενὲς τέκνων—τὸ μητρὸς ὄνομα—ὧ ξύναιμον ὅμμα—συὸς μέγιστον χρήμα, &c.

(d) Epexegesis, Anacoluthon, Attraction, Hendiadys, Zeugma, are also very frequently used. See Hermann on Viger, pp. 892, 895, &c.; Matthiæ's or Jelf's Grammar, &c.;

A land watered with myriad streams, most well-stocked with both oxen and herds, neither stormy in the blasts of wintry-weather, nor on the other hand too hot from the four-horse-team of the sun. 3. A bad education after all for (είς) manliness is craven wealth, and excessive delicacy, but need, though a painful thing, still brings up better children that-toil and are-vigorous. 5. a leader of a country that dares too much. 6. Now I see that oftentimes needy men are wiser than the wealthy, and by offering small gifts with their hands to the gods, are more holy than those-who-sacrifice-oxen.

Aye, and much more, if I reveal it, am I utterly undone. 2. O Gods, why pray must I not unloose my tongue, who verily  $(\gamma \epsilon)$  am being utterly destroyed by you whom I revere? Assuredly (I will) not: in no wise  $(\pi \acute{a} \nu \tau \omega s \ o \acute{v})$  could I persuade those whom I ought, and to no purpose should I violate the oaths I swore. 3. But if however these things are right in the sight of  $(\acute{e}\nu)$  the gods, we shall by suffering (aor. particip.) know that we have been in the wrong; but if these men are in the wrong, may they not suffer more evil than they are now unjustly inflicting on me. 4. A woman from her father's home gone forth Belongeth not to parents but to spouse  $(\lambda \epsilon \chi o s)$ ;

While the male race stands ever in the house, Champion of gods and tombs hereditary.

But know, to me this law shall not exist,
To deem thee, mother, aught but ever dear (τὸ μὴ οὐ),
Yet of all mortals do I love my sire
The most; this I lay down; and grudge not thou.

I have but little good to say of birth,

For unto me the virtuous man is noble;

While the unjust, though from a better sire

Than Zeus he springs, is deemed to be ignoble.

But for thy son,—I know he is discreet, Herds with the good, hath practised piety. How then can evil child from such a body Arise? of this shall none me e'er persuade.

Know'st thou not how the men of noble birth, When they are needy, make no more display, And who were nought before, but wealthy now, Gain reputation for the sake of coin?

Then fare thee well, sweet soil of British land, My mother and my nurse, that bears me still, Where'er I wander, boast of this I can, Though banish'd, yet a true-born Englishman.

The number of Greek lines is given before each piece.

FIVE LINES.

For love assails not men only nor yet again women, but he disturbs the souls even of the gods above and dwellers in-the-sea: and to ward him off not even the all-powerful Zeus avails, but he yields and willingly bends.

SIX LINES.

As the aspect of the moon could never remain two nights in one form, but first from darkness she comes decking her new visage and waxing-full, and whenever she appears most noble in-all-her-course  $(\alpha \hat{\nu} \tau \hat{\eta} s)$  again she fades and comes to nought.

SIX LINES.

Be persuaded. Use (perf. of  $\chi\rho\eta\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$ ) arms and throw-away (the) lyre and cease from songs, and practise accomplishments in martial-deeds. Sing of such, and thou wilt seem to be wise, digging, ploughing land, guarding flocks, after leaving to others these elegant refinements, from which thou wilt dwell-in (but) an empty house (plur.).

SIX LINES.

Why endured ye this? O life-loving mortals, who long to see the coming day though ye have a burden of myriad evils. So does love of life constrain men. For we know life, but through inexperience of death every one fears to leave this light of the sun.

Passages of Various Length.

SIX LINES.

For I have no longer anything to which I must look, save thee; for thou didst desolate my fatherland with the spear, and another fate destroyed my mother and him-who-begat me, (so as to become) lifeless inhabitants of Hades. What country, pray, could become for me equal to  $(\hat{a}v\tau i)$  thee? What wealth? In thee am I wholly (use adjective in agreement with subject) saved.

SEVEN LINES.

Lady, dear is this light of the sun, and fair to look upon is the calm flood of the sea and the earth spring-blooming and abundant water, and I can tell the praise of many (other) fair things; but nothing is so brilliant nor so fair to look upon as for the childless and those-smitten with longing to see in their homes the light of new-born babes.

SEVEN LINES.

What mother, pray  $(\tilde{a}\rho a)$ , or father produced (that) great evil for mortals, envy of hateful name? Where-ever too does it dwell in its allotted portion of the body. Have we it in our hands or vitals or about  $(\pi a \rho a)$

EXERCISE XXXVII.

Passages of Various Length.

SEVEN LINES.

And do not wonder at all, O king, that I thus cleave to gain. For truly those (of) men who enjoy ( $\tilde{\epsilon}\chi\epsilon\nu$ ) a long life still cling pertinaciously to making-gain: and compared with  $(\pi\rho\delta_s)$  money the other things are to men secondary: now  $(\delta\epsilon)$  there are some who commend a man free-from-illness, yet to me no one, if poor, seems to be free-from-illness, but always to be ill.

EIGHT LINES.

Think ye that the wrong-doings spring up to the Gods on wings, and then that some one writes them on the leaves of Zeus' tablet, and that Zeus on seeing them gives judgment for men? Not even the whole heaven, if Zeus were to record  $(\gamma\rho\dot{\alpha}\phi\epsilon\nu)$  the sins of mortals, would be enough, nor yet could he, if he saw, send a penalty to each: but justice is somewhere here hard by, if ye will  $(\beta o\dot{\nu}\lambda\epsilon\sigma\theta a)$  look.

ELEVEN LINES.

Now he found out fortification for the host of the Argives, inventions of rules, numbers, and measures, and was the first of all to form from one ten, and from the ten again he found fifties up to thousands. He alone ( $\epsilon \hat{i}$ s) shewed to the people beacon-firing, guardian of sleep, and for the day ( $\epsilon \hat{i}$ s  $\tilde{\epsilon}\omega$ ) signals, and displayed (them) not (before) revealed. He found out the measures and courses of stars, and these arrangements and constellations in-the-heavens, and for the helmsmen of ships at-sea the revolving of the bear, and the cold setting of the dog-star.

EXERCISE XXXVIII.

FIVE LINES.

Not to be cured, yet not incurable!

The only remedy that remains

Is the blood that flows from a maiden's veins,

Who of her own free will shall die

And give her life as the price of yours.

THREE LINES.

What shall I say unto thee ! for thy goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away.

Not to be cured. Impracticable (ἄπρακτος) of cures yet not (οὖ- $\gamma \epsilon$  μήν) incurable. The blood that flows, the trickling blood of a newly-slain (νεοσφαγής) virgin. Of her own free will, ἐκοῦσα, ἐκουσία, ἐξ ἀκουσίας or αὐτόκλητος. And give, giving her own life (τὸν αὐτῆς βίον) as a ransom (λύσις, ῥύσιον or ῥύσια) for your life Put "life—life" in juxtaposition.

For thy goodness. For like the dewy ( $\epsilon \tilde{v}\tilde{o}\rho\sigma\sigma\sigma s$ ) drops ( $\tilde{\alpha}\chi\nu\eta$ ) and morning ( $\epsilon \tilde{\phi}\sigma s$ ) cloud that-vanishes-from (pass. participle of  $\epsilon \tilde{\xi}a\tilde{u}\sigma\tau\delta\omega$ ) the earth, thy goodness ( $\tau\tilde{o}$   $\epsilon \tilde{\pi}\iota\epsilon\iota\kappa\dot{\epsilon}s$ ) disappearing ( $\phi\rho\sigma\tilde{o}\tilde{o}s$ ) ever isgone ( $\sigma \tilde{\chi}\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ ).

EXERCISE XXXIX.

SIX LINES.

Yet on she moves, now stands, and eyes thee fixed, About to have spoke, but now, with head declined Like a fair flower surcharged with dew, she weeps, And words addressed seem into tears dissolved, Wetting the borders of her silken veil:

But now again she makes address to speak.

Moves on, προβαίνειν. Now stands, now (νῦν μέν) she looks-on thee fixed (ἄστροφος) standing. About to have spoke, imperfect of μέλλειν and fut. infin. Declined, κατηφής. Flower, κάλυξ, ἄνθος. ## EXERCISE XL.

SIX LINES.

Or who shut up the sea with doors, when it brake forth, as if it had issued out of the womb? When I made the cloud the garment thereof, and thick darkness a swaddling-band for it, and said, Hitherto shalt thou come, but no further, and here shall thy proud waves be stayed.

Or who shut up, who was he that shut up (article with aor. participle) the sea. When it brake forth, (article and aor. pass. participle of ἐκρήγνυμι) like a child from its mother, cf. Æsch. S. c. T. 664*. When I made, when in swaldling-bands (σπάργανα) of deeply dark (μελαμβαθής) cloud I girded it. But no further, but heyond (εἰς τὸ ἐπέκεινα) not, let this be the boundary of thy turgid (participle pass, of ἐξογκόω) wave.

EXERCISE XLI.

THREE LINES.

The day is done; and slowly from the scene, The stooping sun upgathers his spent shafts, And puts them back into his golden quiver.

SIX LINES.

And peradventure had he seen her first
She might have made this and that other world
Another world for the sick man; but now
The shackles of an old love straitened him,
His honour rooted in dishonour stood,
And faith unfaithful kept him falsely true.

EXERCISE XLII.

EIGHT OR NINE LINES.

Whence and what art thou? execrable shape! That dar'st, though grim and terrible, advance Thy miscreated front athwart my way To yonder gates; through them I mean to pass, That be assured, without leave asked of thee. Retire, or taste thy folly, and learn by proof, Hell-born, not to contend with spirits of heaven.

EXERCISE XLIII.

Seven Lines.

O purblind race of miserable men, How many among us at this very hour Do forge a life-long trouble for ourselves By taking true for false and false for true; Here thro' the feeble twilight of this world Groping, how many, until we pass and reach That other, where we see as we are seen!

Purblind,  $\epsilon \pi d\rho \gamma \epsilon \mu os$ . At this very hour,  $\kappa a \ell \nu \tau \hat{\psi} \nu \hat{v} \nu \chi \rho \delta \nu \phi$ , or  $\tilde{\eta} \delta \eta$ . Life-long,  $a \ell \omega \nu \iota$  or  $\beta \ell \psi \sigma \psi \mu \mu \epsilon \tau \rho os$ . By taking, whosoever  $(\delta s d \nu \circ \sigma \delta \sigma \iota s d \nu)$  considers  $(\nu \ell \mu \epsilon \iota \nu)$  the trustworthy (neuter plur.) as untrustworthy, but as trustworthy what is not  $(\tau a \mu \dot{\eta})$ . Feeble twilight,  $\phi \hat{\omega} s d \mu a \nu \rho o \nu$ . Until we pass, before  $(\pi \rho \ell \nu)$  at least we reach  $(\tau \nu \chi \epsilon \ell \nu)$  the other. See,  $\epsilon \ell \sigma o \rho \hat{\alpha} \nu$ .

EXERCISE XLIV.

The king at Chinon holds his little court; He cannot keep the field for want of men. Of what avail is courage in the chief, When pallid terror seizes all the host? A sudden panic, as if sent from God, Unnerves the courage of the strongest men. In vain the summons of the king resounds; As when the howling of the wolf is heard, The sheep in terror gather side by side; So Frenchmen careless of their antient fame Seek only now the shelter of the towns.

Holds his little court, remains with a small escort. Cf. Soph. E. T. 750. Chinon,  $X\iota\nu\omega\nu$ , or  $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa\epsilon\hat{\iota}$ . He cannot keep, for being destitute of men he left ( $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa\sigma\tau\hat{\eta}\nu\alpha\iota$ ) the fight. Host,  $\lambda\delta\chi$ os. Chief,  $\lambda\delta\chi\alpha\gamma\delta$ s. A sudden panie, the unexpected, as some malady from God. Unnerves, Even in the very brave is-wont-to-loosen (aor.) (his) strength (so as to be) weak ( $\dot{\alpha}\mu\nu\nu\gamma\nu\delta$ s). Resounds, is heralded. Howling, as, if the wolf were to howl ( $\theta\omega\hat{\nu}\sigma\sigma\epsilon\nu$ ) a piercing ery, you would see the flocks terrified ( $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa\pi\alpha\gamma\lambda\delta\hat{\nu}\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$ ) in-crowds ( $\dot{\alpha}\theta\rho\delta\sigma$ s). Seek shelter of,  $\dot{\alpha}\nu\tau\dot{\epsilon}\chi\epsilon\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$ .

EXERCISE XLV.

His Spirit 'tis that calls me; 'tis the troop
Of his true followers, who offered up
Themselves to avenge his death: and they accuse me
Of an ignoble loitering; they would not
Forsake their leader even in death; they died for him!
And shall I live?—
For me too was that laurel-garland twined
That decks his bier. Life is an empty easket;
I throw it from me. Oh! my only hope!
To die beneath the hoofs of trampling steeds—
That is the lot of heroes upon earth!

His spirit, the dead calls me, there-calls the troop. Who offered up, who grudged not  $(\dot{a}\phi\epsilon\iota\hat{o}\hat{\epsilon}\hat{v})$  life to exact (ellipse of  $\ddot{\omega}\sigma\tau\hat{\epsilon})$  death in return for their leader fallen, cf. Ayam. 1263. Of an ignoble, accuse as loitering from a most shameful idleness. They would not, for verily in the destruction of life there was present with him who not? nay rather died for him  $(\pi\rho\sigma\theta\nu'\eta\sigma\kappa\epsilon\nu)$ . And shall I live? How then is-it to-be-lived  $(\beta\iota\omega\tau\deltas)$  by me? That decks, an ornament of. Throw it from me, aor. of  $\dot{a}\pi\sigma\pi\tau\dot{\nu}\epsilon\nu$ . O my only hope, O hope, O (thou) now left alone to me. To die beneath, to die trampled  $(\lambda a\kappa\pi\dot{\alpha}\tau\eta\tau\sigmas, \kappa\rho\sigma\tau\eta\tau\deltas)$  by blows of hoofs of horses. That is the lot, such as is assigned  $(\pi\dot{\epsilon}\pi\rho\omega\mu\alpha)$  to the daring-ones of mortals.

EXERCISE XLVI.

'Tis thought, the king is dead; we will not stay. The bay-trees in our country are all wither'd, And meteors fright the fixed stars of heaven; The pale-fac'd moon looks bloody on the earth, And lcan-look'd prophets whisper fearful change:

Rich men look sad, and ruffians dance and leap,— The one, in fear to lose what they enjoy, The other, to enjoy by rage and war: These signs forerun the death or fall of kings.

'Tis thought, The king is dead they say. We will not stay, cf. Persæ, 407. Meteors, lamps in-mid-air suspended (αlωρεῖσθαι). Looks bloody, stains-with-blood her face in appearance (βλέπειν). Whisper, signify by (διά) a quiet tongue. Look sad, have a gloomy eye. In fear to lose,  $\phi$ όβω μή. To enjoy, as about-to-reap a harvest from Ares and quarrels. Forerun,  $\pi$ ροσημαίνειν.

EXERCISE XLVII.

Then, as I said, the duke, great Bolingbroke,— Mounted upon a hot and fiery steed,
Which his aspiring rider seem'd to know,—
With slow, but stately pace, kept on his course,
While all tongues cried—God save thee, Bolingbroke!
You would have thought the very windows spake,
So many greedy looks of young and old
Through casements darted their desiring eyes
Upon his visage; and that all the walls,
With painted imag'ry, had said at once,—
Jesu preserve thee! welcome, Bolingbroke!
Whilst he, from one side to the other turning,
Bare-headed, lower than his proud steed's neck,
Bespake them thus,—I thank you, countrymen.
And thus still doing, thus he pass'd along.

The duke, ὁ δεσπότης. Mounted on, ἔποχος ὧν (dat.). Hot, panting (κατασθμαίνεω). Fiery, participle of θυμοῦσθαι. Which his aspiring rider, as if clearly knowing the haughty (ὑπέρφρων) spirit of-the-horseman. With slow but stately pace, was marching looking stately (σεμνός) and still step-by step (βάδην). While all tongues, this city shouting with voice of all the people ( $\pi$ ávðημοs). God save thee, may God become a saviour to thee. Window, θυρίs. So many, through which so many eyes of both young and old were looking towards this man with intent (ἀστροφοs) cagerness. Painted imagery, call with purple-laid ( $\pi$ ορφυρόστρωτοs) words. Jesu, ὁ Σωτήρ. Whilst he from one side, but he, bending (νεύειν) his head bared-of helmet (κράνοs) turning himself in turn (μέροs) to (one at one) another at another time, even below the neck of-his-steed ( $\pi$ ωλικόs). Thank, χάριν συνείδέναι. And thus still doing, thus then advancing, thus he was accomplishing his-way.

EXERCISE XLVIII.

O noble breast and all puissant arms, Am I the cause, I the poor cause that men Reproach you, saving all your force is gone? I am the cause because I dare not speak And tell him what I think and what they say. And vet I hate that he should linger here; I cannot love my lord and not his name. Far liever had I gird his harness on him, And ride with him to battle and stand by, And watch his mightful hand striking great blows At caitiffs and at wrongers of the world. Far better were I laid in the dark earth, Not hearing any more his noble voice, Not to be folded more in these dear arms, And darkened from the high light in his eyes, Than that my lord through me should suffer shame. Am I so bold, and could I so stand by, And see my dear lord wounded in the strife, Or may be pierced to death before mine eyes, And yet not dare to tell him what I think, And how men slur him, saying all his force

Is melted into mere effeminacy?

O me, I fear that I am no true wife.

O noble breast, O breast, O noble (one), O all-puissant (παναλκής) strength of arms. That men reproach, of reproach uttered-by-people (δημόθρους) (omit "saying"). I am the cause, For I (am) blameworthy, who ($715) did not dare. I cannot love, For how can I love him but his fame (δόξα) not? Far liever had I, κάρτα προτιμάν. Harness, σαγή. And stand by, and a stander-by (παραστάτις) in battle. Mightful hand, see (him) wielding stout (loxupos) blows with a stout hand, death (φθορά) to cowardly destroyers (λυμεών). Far better were I laid, It (is) better that I should lie in the recesses (μύχος) of the dark earth. To be folded, a thing embraced (ὑπαγκάλισμα, παραγκάλισμα, πρόσπτυγμα). Darkened from, pass. participle of άμαυρόω. High light, γάνος. Suffer, ὀφλισκάνειν. Am I so bold, Can I (ἔχειν) thus dare, thus stand by? Or may be, nay rather (µèv ov) perhaps pierced with a death wound (cf. Kaipios). Men, use 715. Effemipacy, feminine minded indolence (ραθυμία). I fear that I am, δέδοικα ιδκνώ, άθυμώ) μή είμι (cf. Shilleto, Demosthenes de Falsa Legatione, Appendix B).

EXERCISE XLIX.

York. I took an oath, that he should quietly reign.

Edw. But, for a kingdom, any oath may be broken: I'd break a thousand oaths, to reign one year.

Rich. No; God forbid, your grace should be forsworn.

York. I shall be, if I claim by open war.

Rich. I'll prove the contrary, if you'll hear me speak.

York. Thou canst not, son; it is impossible.

Rich. An oath is of no moment, being not took Before a true and lawful magistrate,

That hath authority over him that swears: Henry had none, but did usurp the place; Then, seeing 'twas he that made you to depose, Your oath, my lord, is vain and frivolous. Therefore, to arms. And, father, do but think, How sweet a thing it is to wear a crown; Within whose circuit is Elysium, And all that poets feign of bliss and joy. Why do we linger thus? I cannot rest, Until the white rose, that I wear, be dyed Even in the lukewarm blood of Henry's heart.

I took an oath, but I swore that verily (η μήν). Quietly, neut. plur. of aoulos, or dat. of aoulía. But for a kingdom, but what of oaths must one preserve (σωστέος) any longer, who at least is-enamoured-of power? To reign one year, as even on condition of (ἐπί with dat.) (power) for-α-year (ἔτειος). Be forsworn, μη εὐορκείν. Ι shall be, and how could I (keep my oath)? Claim by open war, cf. Æsch. Suppl. 412. Thou canst not, But (try not,) for it is not possible. Of no moment, παρ' οὐδέν. Not being took, unless there-administer (διδόναι) it a magistrate who-wields (artic. with participle) with lawful (γνήσιος) prerogative a powerful (τελεσφόρος) authority (κυρος) for those-that-receive-the-outh (δέχεσθαι). Henry had none, but Henry then without authority (ἐξ ἀκύρων) self-called was-in-office. Your oath, you were after all (apa) vain-in swearing (participle) and not (ovôé) bound-by-outh. To arms, imperat. of όπλίζομαι. Το wear, ἀμφιβάλλεσθαι with acc. Circuit, περιπτυχαί. Elysium, blessings (εὐκταῖα) equal to (those of) the Gods. And all that poets feign, and whatsoever excellence of pleasure superior to this the poet (ὁ μουσοποιός) is wont-to-feign (aor. of πλάττειν). Ι cannot rest, there is no time (ἀκμή) for rest. White rose, this ornament (άγλάϊσμα), a white-coloured rose. Dye, βάπτειν, μιαίνειν βαφαίς.

EXERCISE L

A little onward lend thy guiding hand To these dark steps, a little further on; For yonder bank hath choice of sun or shade: There I am wont to sit, when any chance Relieves me from my task of servile toil, Daily in the common prison else enjoin'd me, Where I, a prisoner chain'd, scarce freely draw The air imprison'd also, close and damp, Unwholesome draught: but here I feel amends, The breath of Heaven fresh blowing, pure and sweet With day-spring born; here leave me to respire.— This day a solemn feast the people hold To Dagon their sea-idol, and forbid Laborious works; unwillingly this rest Their superstition yields me; hence with leave Retiring from the popular noise, I seek This unfrequented place to find some ease. Ease to the body some, none to the mind From restless thoughts, that, like a deadly swarm Of hornets arm'd, no sooner found alone, But rush upon me thronging, and present Times past, what once I was, and what am now,

A little onward—a little further on: bring into the same line. Dark steps, τυφλόπους βάσις or όδός. Hath choice of sun, gives (κέμεν) shadov and sunshine, a double choice. There am I wont, whither (οΙ I sit an accustomed (ξυνήθης) seat. Task of servile toil, δούλιον λάτρευμα. Enjoined, ἐφεστώς. A prisoner chained, &c., where not with ease (κατ εὐμάρειαν) in fetters I confined breathe the vapour (ἄτμός) of air confined withme (συνείργεν) pestilential breathings. But here I feel amends, but here there cools (ψόχειν, ἀναψόχειν) me a fresh breeze, sweet-blowing purity (γάνος) of the pole, dawning-with the dawn, cf. Agam. 254. This day a solemn feast, &c., The people hold-sacred this day (as) an oxen-sacrificing (one). And forbid, &c., and as if (it were) forbidden (ἀπόρρητος, acc. absol.) to labour. Unwillingly, unwilling, but about to-avoid a pollution, cf. Soph. Antig. 256. Retiring from, &c. I have sailed into this lonely anchorage apart-from the noise (βόθος) uttered by the people, that haply (ώς ἄν) I may find calm. No sooner found alone, &c., anticipate ( $\phi\theta \text{Live}(v)$ ) infalling-on me left alone (pass. participle of  $\mu \text{or} \delta \omega$  or  $\hat{\epsilon} \rho \eta \mu \delta \omega$ ), and by memory of the former times teach me what-sort-of-man from ( $\hat{\epsilon} \kappa$ ) whatsort I happen to be ( $\kappa v \rho \epsilon \hat{v} v$ ).

EXERCISE LI.

Shepherd, I pray thee stay. Where hast thou been, Or whither goest thou? Here be woods as green As any, air likewise as fresh and sweet As where smooth Zephyrus plays on the fleet Face of the curled streams, with flowers as many As the young spring gives, and as choice as any; Here be all new delights, cool streams and wells; Arbours o'ergrown with woodbines; caves and dells. Choose where thou wilt; whilst I sit by and sing, Or gather rushes to make many a ring For thy long fingers, tell the tales of love, How the pale Phobe, hunting in a grove, First saw the boy Endymion, from whose eyes She took eternal fire that never dies; How she conveyed him softly in a sleep, His temples bound with poppy, to the steep Head of old Latmus, where she stoops each night, Gilding the mountain with her brother's light, To kiss her sweetest.

I pray thee stay, 2nd per. optat. with  $\tilde{a}\nu$ . Where hast thou been? after-returning  $(\kappa\alpha\tau\epsilon\lambda\theta\epsilon\hat{\nu})$  whence? Here be woods, &c., of this grove at least, if of any, the green trees flourish. Air likewise as fresh, &c., and ever do the sweet-toned breezes of fresh  $(\lambda\alpha\mu\pi\rho\deltas)$  winds breathe, as (olos) the smooth Zephyrus loves to-sport-in the rippling (alohos) laughter of fleet streams. With flowers, &c., and there bloom flowers as-many-as new spring gives, the choice once (ἐξαιρετόs) of gifts. O'ergrown, κατηρεφής. Choose where thou wilt, &c., I, sitting-by-thee (προσίζεω) whatever seat (cognate acc.) thou mayest desire, will sing. Tell the tales, and I will whisper some crotic tale (μύθευμα). Phabe, Αρτεμιε. Saw—and took (participle and finite verb). Boy, ἀνδρόπαιε. That never dies, ἄσβεστος. Old Latmus, Latmus, ancient object of reverence (σέβας). Stoops—to kiss, by night stooping (κλίνεσθαι) embraces (προσπτύσσεσθαι) her dear one.

EXERCISE LIL

O prince, O chief of many throned powers, That led the embattled seraphim to war Under thy conduct, and in dreadful deeds Fearless, endanger'd Heaven's perpetual king, And put to proof his high supremacy, Whether upheld by strength, or chance, or fate; Too well I see, and rue the dire event, That with sad overthrow, and foul defeat, Hath lost us Heaven, and all this mighty host In horrible destruction laid thus low, As far as gods and heavenly essences Can perish: for the mind and spirit remains Invincible, and vigour soon returns, Though all our glory extinct, and happy state Here swallowed up in endless misery. But what if he our conqueror (whom I now Of force believe almighty, since no less Than such could have o'erpower'd such force as ours) Have left us this our spirit and strength entire Strongly to suffer and support our pains, That we may so suffice his vengeful ire, Or do him mightier service as his thralls

By right of war, whate'er his business be, Here in the heart of Hell to work in fire, Or do his errands in the gloomy deep; What can it then avail, though yet we feel Strength undiminish'd, or eternal being To undergo eternal punishment?

O chief, &c., who rulest-over the full-assembly of-fair-thrones, Embattled seraphim, apeior δαίμονες. In dreadful deeds, &c., and who threatened (καταπειλείν) destructive death against eternal (alavýs) God, the heaven-holding and almighty ruler. High supremacy, κράτος αὐτοκρατές. That with sad overthrow, &c., from which we, routed (καταστρέφειν) foul in-foul-plight (κακώς) and expelled (ἀνάστατος), α very great army, fallen out (pl.) from heaven, lie prostrate (πρόκεισθαι) in such a fate with-ill-fortune (δυσμόρωs). As far as, ὅσον γε. Vigour, the acme of strength returns (ἀνέρχεσθαι) quick. Though all our glory extinct, even if we still (ouws) lack (στέρεσθαι) our fair fame. Conqueror, victorious (νικηφόρος) master. Since no less, &c., for had he been inferior, how could be have thrown down (καταρρίπτειν) so great an army of us? Entire, ἀκραιφνής. Strongly to suffer, to-endure (καρτερείν) thrilling (διώδυνος) pains. Thralls by right of war, αίχμάλωτα κτήματα. Work in fire, πυρπολείν. Do errands, διακονείν άγγελματα. Eternal being, αλανής φύσις.

EXERCISE LIII.

This heard Geraint, and grasping at his sword (It lay beside him in the hollow shield),
Made but a single bound, and with a sweep of it
Shore thro' the swarthy neck, and like a ball
The russet bearded head rolled on the floor.
So died Earl Doorm by him he counted dead,
And all the men and women in the hall
Rose when they saw the dead man rise, and fled
Yelling as from a spectre, and the two

Were left alone together, and he said,
Enid, I have used you worse than that dead man:
Done you more wrong: we both have undergone
That trouble which has left me thrice your own.
Henceforward I will rather die than doubt.
And here I lay this penance on myself,
Not—though mine own ears heard you yestermorn—
You thought me sleeping, but I heard you say,
I heard you say that you were no true wife:
I swear I will not ask your meaning in it:
I do believe yourself against yourself,
And will henceforward rather die than doubt.

Geraint, the husband. Beside him, ready to hand, cf. Souh. Phil. 747. Made but a single bound, cf. Æsch. Agam. 826. With a sweep of it shore thro', whirling (it) rushingly (σύδην) shore thro' (cf. Æsch. Agam, 536); reproduce the sibilants in Greek, so as to accommodate the sound to the sense. Russet bearded head, russet haired (πυρρόθριξ) head, beard and all. Him he counted dead, the supposed dead, ὁ μη βλέπων (or ὁ κατθανών) δή or δηθεν: in artithesis to which "Earl Doorm" may be translated by ὁ βλέπων. Rose when they saw, rose-with this rising (ἀνάστασις) of the dead. Yell, lύζειν. And the two, &c., so that in quiet (he) alone addressed (her) alone. Enid, & youal. I have used you worse, &c., the dead-one has treated you  $(\tau \dot{\alpha} \ \sigma \dot{\alpha})$  badly  $(al\sigma \chi \rho \hat{\omega} s \ \delta \rho \hat{a} \nu)$  but I worse. Which has left me, from which I am thine thrice as much (τόσως). Rather die than doubt, not to live (τὸ μη ζην) (is) better than not to confide. And here I lay, &c., now therefore I agree to (καταινείν) self-assumed (αὐθαιρετόs) punishment (ἀντίποινα) for this sin. Not though, μηδ' εί καί. Yestermorn, al έχθès ἀντολαί. I heard you say, &c., I heard from you (σοῦ) that you were after all (ἄρα) no true (οὐ κεδνή) wife, but thinking of what (participle in agreement with σου, above) I swear that assuredly (η μήν) I will no longer seek-to-know. And will henceforward, &c., as may I no longer live (elvai) if-I-do-not (participle) at least place trust (πίστιν φέρειν) in-thee.

EXERCISE LIV.

Blessed is the man that hath not walked in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stood in the way of sinners, and hath not sat in the seat of the scornful.

But his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law will he exercise himself day and night.

And he shall be like a tree planted by the waterside, that will bring forth his fruit in due season.

His leaf also shall not wither; and look, whatsoever he doeth, it shall prosper.

As for the ungodly, it is not so with them, but they are like the chaff, which the wind scattereth away from the face of the earth.

Therefore the ungodly shall not be able to stand in the judgment, neither the sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

But the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous, and the way of the ungodly shall perish.

Blessed,  $\vec{\alpha}\nu$  with aor. opt. of δυίναμαι. That walketh not, &c., who keeps (εἴργενν) his foot apart from ungodly counsel. Nor standeth, &c., and standeth aloof from (δίχα) sinners. Nor sitteth, &c., not being a dweller (ξύνοικος, ξύνθακος) in the seats of scorners (ὑβριστής). But his delight, &c., but considers this (ἐκεῖνο) on the other hand his delight (τὸ τερπνόν), to reverence God, practising (it) (by) night and by day. Planted, perf. pass. of ρίζοω. By the water-side, cf. Antigone, 712. In due season, ώραῖος. His leaf also, with ever-living (ἀκίζως) leaves. And look, &c., and you may see how whatever-things he engages in (ωττέρχεσθαι) he gets (ὅρνισθαι) fully accomplished (τελεσφόρος). It is not so with them, &c., (The ungodly) fare the reverse (τὰ ἐναντία) being nothing else but chaff, a thing-seized by the wind (genit.) scattered from-carth. Stand in the judgment, stand against (ἀντιοστατεῖν) those-that-judge in trial (δίκη). Knoweth, ξυναινεῖν, ξυνειδέναι. Shall perish, but to the bad all things fall-away (ἔρὲςν) perishing (ἐξίτηλος).

EXERCISE LV.

E. Woe! woe! that aught so gentle and so young Should thus be call'd to stand i' the tempest's path, And bear the token and the hue of death On a bright soul so soon! I had not shrunk From mine own lot; but thou, my child, shouldst move

As a light breeze of heaven, through summer bowers And not o'er foaming billows. We are fall'n On dark and evil days!

- X. Ay, days that wake
  All to their tasks!—Youth may not loiter now
  In the green walks of spring; and womanhood
  Is summoned into conflicts, heretofore
  The lot of warrior-souls. Strength is born
  In the deep silence of long-suffering hearts,
  Not amidst joy.
- E. Hast thou some secret woe
  That thus thou speak'st?
- X. What sorrow should be mine Unknown to thee?

That aught so gentle, &c., that  $(\tau \delta)$  with infinitive) you such as you are  $(\tau \circ \iota \circ \delta \circ \epsilon \circ \gamma \epsilon)$  tender and still young  $(i \beta \hat{\alpha} v)$  should-be-put-forward  $(\pi \rho \circ \kappa \epsilon \circ \delta \circ \alpha v)$  in the way of, &c. Token,  $\sigma \phi \rho \circ \alpha \gamma v$ . Hue,  $\beta \circ \alpha \circ \delta \circ \alpha v$  soon,  $\delta \circ \omega \rho \circ \alpha v$  agreeing with  $\sigma \circ \phi \rho \circ \alpha \gamma v$ . I had not shrunk, &c., I should not, be assured, have shrunk-from exhausting  $(\delta v \tau \wedge \epsilon \circ v)$  my lot. Light,  $\lambda \cdot \epsilon \circ \circ \alpha v$  Move through,  $\delta \circ \alpha \circ \phi \circ \alpha v$  Dark and evil days, an abomination of dark days. Youth may not loiter, &c., for it is fitting  $(\epsilon \circ \iota \circ v)$  that youth  $(\tau \circ \iota \circ \iota \circ \gamma \circ v)$  should no longer loiter  $(\chi \circ \iota \circ \iota \circ v)$  in the green dells of summer. Womankind,  $\tau \circ \delta \circ \gamma \circ v$  Warrior-souls, spirits  $(\lambda \circ \gamma \circ \iota \circ \gamma \circ v)$  for manly-counsel. Deep,  $\beta \circ \alpha \circ v \circ v$  Not amidst joy, never nourished-from  $(\epsilon \circ \iota \circ v)$  griefless joy. What sorrow, &c., for having-suffered (aor.) what calamity  $(\iota \circ \iota \circ v)$  could I any longer escape thee?

EXERCISE LVI.

O fair and strong and terrible! Lioness,
That with your long locks play the Lion's mane!
But Love and Nature, these are two more terrible
And stronger. See, your foot is on our necks,
We vanquished, you the victor of your will.
What would you more! give her the child, remain
Orbed in your isolation: he is dead,
Or all as dead: henceforth we let you be:
Win you the love of women, and beware
Lest, where you seek the common love of these,
The common hate with the revolving wheel
Should drag you down, and some great Nemesis
Break from a darkened future crown'd with fire,
And tread you out for ever.

O fair, &c., O savage-hearted (ἀμόθυμος) beauty, unbroken growth (φυή). Long, κατάκομος. Lioness, put in juxtaposition to Lion. But love, &c., But Love, let me tell thee, and Nature checks thee, stronger (έγκρατής) terrors. Is on our necks, hath walked on necks to-us. We vanguished, &c., and raunt over (us) being conquered (pres. participle) farourably to (πρὸς χάριν) your will. Give her the child, nay rather give the child to-her-that-bare (it). Remain orbed in your isolation, and by-want (άχηνία) of love (κύπρις) do thou endure to be encircled (participle of κυκλοῦσθαί). Or all as dead, or at least (γοῦν) caual to dead men. We let you be, we men let you be (¿av). Win you the love, Charm thou (θέλγειν) accordingly (τοι) jeminine longing. Lest, where you seek, &c., but (take care) lest common hate drag thee on (future) headlong (\pi pnvn's) with the backward-turning wheel while-fawning-on the common love of these. Break from a darkened future, &c., from the reils of the future (to mennon burst forth all ruling (= great) who once for all shall crush thee trodden-under foot.

EXERCISE LVII.

Cease your fretful prayers,
Your whinings and your tame petitions;
The gods love courage arm'd with confidence,
And prayers fit to pull them down: weak tears
And troubled hearts, the dull twins of cold spirits,
They sit and smile at! Hear how I salute them.—
Divine Andate, thou who hold'st the reins
Of furious battles and disorder'd war,
And proudly roll'st thy swarty chariot-wheels
Over the heaps of wounds and carcases,
Sailing through seas of blood:—thou sure-steel'd sternness,

Give us this day good hearts, good enemies, Good blows on both sides, wounds that fear or flight Can claim no share in.

Cease, οἰκ εῖα, with future. Whinings, your whining (κνυζούμενος) supplication. Fit to pull, able (ἔχων) to drag down (κατασπᾶν) heaven. Troubled, κακόσπλαγχνος. Dull twins, cold twin (δίπτυχος) offspring of unmanly hearts. Sit and smile at, sitting (ἰδρυμένος) laugh at. Hear how I salute, hear me (ἐγώ μὲν) then what (οἰα) I invoke, Thee now (δή) thee that-holdest the rein (ψάλιον) — divinity (σέβας) of Andraste. Wounds, σφαγαί. Rollest, ἐρέσσειν. Proudly, σεμνῶς. Seas, ἐπιβροαί. Thou sure-steel'd sternness, Thee now (resuming σὲ δή, hitherto not governed) I address, hardness, iron-hearted. Good hearts, ἐσθλὸν ἀνδρείας θράσος. On both sides, διχόθεν. Can claim no share in, not-shared-in (ἀκοινώνητος) by fear.

EXERCISE LVIII.

Rascal thieves, Here's gold: Go, suck the subtle blood of the grape, Till the high fever seeth your blood to froth, And so 'scape hanging: trust not the physician;
His antidotes are poison, and he slays
More than you rob: take wealth and lives together;
Do villany, do, since you profess to do't,
Like workmen. I'll example you with thievery:
The sun's a thief, and with his great attraction
Robs the vast sea: the moon's an arrant thief,
And her pale fire she snatches from the sun:
The sea's a thief, whose liquid surge resolves
The moon into salt tears: the earth's a thief,
That feeds and breeds by a composture stolen
From general excrement,

Rascal,  $\pi \alpha \nu o \hat{\nu} \rho \gamma o s$ . Suck,  $\dot{\rho} o \phi \epsilon \hat{\nu} \nu$ . Subtle,  $\lambda \epsilon \pi r \acute{o} s$ . High fever, the fever ( $\kappa a \hat{\nu} \mu a$ ) make your blood boil ( $\dot{\epsilon} \pi \iota \dot{\xi} \epsilon \hat{\nu} \nu$ ) (so as to be) frothy. And so 'scape, and death deliver you from ( $\dot{\epsilon} \xi a \phi \iota \dot{\epsilon} \nu a \nu$ ) the hangman ( $\dot{\delta} \delta \dot{\eta} \mu \iota o s$ ). Trust not, do not obey (in) nothing the race of physicians. Antidote,  $\dot{\alpha} \lambda \epsilon \xi \iota \phi \dot{\alpha} \rho \mu a \kappa \nu$ . And he slays, slaying, participle agreeing with "antidote." Than you rob, than the thief plunders ( $\delta \iota a \rho \pi \dot{\alpha} \dot{\varsigma} \epsilon \iota \nu$ .) Lives and wealth together, life with gold. Do villany,  $\pi a \nu o \nu \rho \gamma \epsilon \dot{\nu} \nu$ . Like workmen,  $\delta \eta \mu \iota o \nu \rho \gamma \iota \kappa \dot{\omega} s$ . Profess,  $\dot{\epsilon} \pi \alpha \gamma \gamma \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \lambda \epsilon \sigma \partial a \iota$ . I'll example you, verily I tell you myriad examples ( $\delta \epsilon \dot{\epsilon} \gamma \mu a$ ) of robbery. With his great attraction, by drawing to him ( $\pi \rho \sigma \dot{\epsilon} \lambda \kappa \epsilon \nu$ ) the (waters) of the sea. Arrant,  $\pi \rho o \dot{\omega} \pi r o s$ . Pale,  $\dot{\alpha} \phi \gamma \gamma \dot{\gamma} s$ . Salt tears, salt ( $\dot{\alpha} \lambda \mu \nu \rho \dot{s}$ ) dew. The earth's a thief, &c., and earth which carries off ( $\sigma \nu \lambda \dot{\nu} \nu$ ) nourishment and produces from the mixed excrement ( $\pi \epsilon \rho \iota \sigma \omega \sigma \iota s$ ) of all things.

EXERCISE LIX.

And though you think, that all, as you have done, Have torn their souls, by turning them from us, And we are barren, and bereft of friends;—

Yet know,-my master, God omnipotent, Is must'ring in his clouds, on our behalf, Armies of pestilence; and they shall strike Your children yet unborn, and unbegot. That lift your vassal hands against my head, And threat the glory of my precious crown. Tell Bolingbroke, (for yond', methinks, he is,) That every stride he makes upon my land, Is dangerous treason: He is come to ope The purple testament of bleeding war; But ere the crown he looks for live in peace, Ten thousand bloody crowns of mothers' sons Shall ill become the flower of England's face; Change the complexion of her maid-pale peace To scarlet indignation, and bedew Her pastures' grass with faithful English blood.

And though, emphasize by  $\delta \eta$ . All, none who not of mortals. As you have done, in thy fashion  $(\tau \rho \delta \pi \sigma t)$ . Souls,  $\kappa \epsilon a \rho$ . Tear, έξανασπάν. Barren, έρημος.

Muster, συναλίζειν. On our behalf armies, armics about-to-fightwith (συμμάχεσθαι) us. Strike, σκήπτειν. Your children, children the neither born (γεννάσθαι) nor begot (σπείρεσθαι) of you as many as, &c., Vassal, δούλιος. Threat, &c., distress (χειμάζειν) with rexing (δύσχιμος) threats the precious honour (yécas) of the crown, Bolingbroke, Bolingbroke, βροκος. Methinks, που. That every stride, &c., the foot (κώλον) which he advances is plainly convicted (οὐ λανθάνειν άλούς) of dangerous treason. He is come, nay rather that he has come. Purple, fem. of φοίνιξ. Testament, δέλτος. Ορε, έξελίσσειν. Ere the crown, &c., before that the expected monarchy be placed round the head of him (50e) holding it peaceably. Ten thousand, &c., heads of thrice ten thousand males stained (χραίνεσθαι) with bloody dew. Ill become, καταξαίνειν. Change the complexion, &c., assuredly (η μήν) these changing for purple wrath (xoxn) the pule complexion (xooa) of virgin-faced peace shall bedew with bloodshed (αίματα) of faithful (φερέγγυος) Britons the grass (so as to be) red, and the ox-feeding haunts (¿πιστροφαί).

EXERCISE LX.

What should this mean?
What sudden anger's this? how have I reaped it?
He parted frowning from me, as if ruin
Leap'd from his eyes: so looks the chafed lion
Upon the daring huntsman that has galled him;
Then makes him nothing. I must read this paper;
I fear, the story of his anger.—'Tis so;
This paper has undone me:—'Tis the account
Of all that world of wealth I have drawn together
For mine own ends; indeed, to gain the popedom,
And fee my friends in Rome. O negligence,
Fit for a fool to fall by! What cross devil
Made me put this main secret in the packet
I sent the king? Is there no way to cure this?

What sudden anger, Whence this wrath suddenly? He parted, for he parted. Frowning, ξυνωφρυωμένος. So looks, &c., such glances (δέργμα) does the chafed (χολοῦσθαι) lion look-at the fierce hunter. Gall, δάκνειν. Then makes, &c., about (μέλλειν) to give him not soon but now to slaughter. Paper, βίβλων πτυχαί. I fear, in which I greatly (ayar) fear the story of his anger. It is so, For it is (Exew) so. Account, aπογραφή. World of wealth, &c., money and unfathomable wealth, collected by me when-I-forwarded (participle of σπεύδειν) my own interests. To gain, &c., if I might sometime receive the office ( $\tau \in \lambda os$ ) of high-priest, at the same time intending-to-pay fee to friends. O negligence, O senscless (παράφρων) trippings, such as indeed (οίός γε) some fool ought to have perished by. What cross devil, &c., who of deities persuaded me after writing (part.) in the books the secret (απόρρητος) and to-be-concealed (things) then to send (them) to the royal person (δέμας). Is there no way, &c. Where (is there) for me a device releasing from such things?

EXERCISE LXI.

Where is thy husband now? Where be thy brothers? Where be thy two sons? Wherein dost thou joy? Who sues, and kneels, and savs-God save the gueen? Where be the bending peers that flattered thee? Where be the thronging troops that follow'd thee? Decline all this, and see what now thou art. For happy wife, a most distressed widow: For joyful mother, one that wails the name; For one being sued to, one that humbly sues; For queen, a very caitiff crown'd with care: For one that scorn'd at me, now scorn'd of me: For one being fear'd of all, now fearing one; For one commanding all, obey'd of none. Thus hath the course of justice wheel'd about, And left thee but a very prey to time; Having no more but thought of what thou wert, To torture thee the more, being what thou art. Thou didst usurp my place, and dost thou not Usurp the just proportion of my sorrow? Now thy proud neck bears half my burdened yoke: From which even here I slip my wearied head, And leave the burden of it all on thee.

Now, to be emphasized. Two sons, δίπαιδες σποραί, or δίπαις ξυνωρίς. Wherein dost thou joy, where, or whence, for thee (is) joy (τό χαίρεν). Sues and kneels, with prayers kneels to (προσπίτνεν) thee. Bending, Antig. 441. Thronging troops, and the myriad following that-attended (κοινόπους) along (κατά) thy track. What now thou art, how thou now farest. For, may be translated by ἀντί οr ἐκ, or by antithesis of μὲν—δέ. Caitiff crowned, having a wretched (δείλαιος) crown of ενίδε. Scorned at, ἐγγελῶν—γελωτ' ὀφλισκάνειν.

Commanding all, παντόσεμνος. Obeyed of none, hast no reverence (σέβas). Course of justice wheeled, justice turning her course (κάμπτειν δρόμον), or by a nautical metaphor, with a change-wind (τροπαία) turning her course (mhoûs). A very prey, nothing else but a prey (ξλωρ). To torture thee, so that thou being such as thou art (τοιάνδε γ' οὖσαν) be tortured (ἀνίασθαι) more, or, a greater torture (substantive in apposition to sentence). Just proportion, justly (σύν δίκη or δικαίως) have my sorrow not in proportion (οὐ σύμμετρος οτ συμμετρούμενος). Now thy proud neck, &c., but yoked-together with my burdened (δύσλοφος) fortunes thou bearest this common load till now impatiently (οὐ φιλώς). Slip, ἐκλύειν. Leave the burden, I transfer (it) to thee to carry (it) alone for the future.

EXERCISE LXII.

Give me my robe, put on my crown; I have Immortal longings in me: Now no more The juice of Egypt's grape shall moist this lip:-Yare, yare, good Iras; quick.—Methinks, I hear Antony call; I see him rouse himself To praise my noble act; I hear him mock The luck of Cæsar, which the gods give men To excuse their after wrath: Husband, I come: Now to that name my courage prove my title! I am fire, and air; my other elements I give to baser life.—So,—have you done? Come then, and take the last warmth of my lips. Farewell, kind Charmian;-Iras, long farewell.

Kisses them. IRAS falls and dies.

Have I the aspic in my lips? Dost fall? If thou and nature can so gently part, The stroke of death is as a lover's pinch, Which hurts, and is desir'd. Dost thou lie still? If thus thou vanishest, thou tell'st the world It is not worth leave-taking.

Put on, κρατί ἀμφιτιθέναι. I have immortal longings, Just now (apriws) there soothes (\progradue(v)) me an immortal longing. Now no more, &c., but surely never (οὔτι μήποτε) again shall the rich wine (εξοινον γάνος) of Nile grape (ράξ) moisten this lip. Yare, εία, άγ εία, or imperat. of έγκονείν. Quick, cf. Agam. 1059, also Ajax, S11. Rouse himself, &c., rising (ἐπαντέλλειν) from the tomb a praiser of this (woman) doing noble deeds, and mocking Casar (for) what-things hehas-been-fortunate-in. Which the gods give, &c., considering that (ws with acc. participle absolute) these things have been sent from the gods to men, an excuse for after-destroying (ὑστερόφθορος) wrath. Husband, avio. To that name, &c., would that we may with reason (εὐλόγως) be called named-after him for (xápiv) manliness. My other elements, (things) of which my body is composed (συγκείσθαι). Take, δρέπειν, λωτίζεσθαι. The stroke of death, καιρία πληγή μόρου, or, death strikes (aor.) a wound as (ola) one loving (would) a pinch (ông pla, στιγμός) both sharp (πικρός) and longed-for. If thus thou vanishest. &c., vanishing (φρούδος) thus thou art evidently (δήλος) disdaining (ἀπαξιοῦν) (so as) not to bid farewell to mortals.

EXERCISE LXIII.

Shu. I'll have my bond; I will not hear thee speak: I'll have my bond; and therefore speak no more. I'll not be made a soft and dull-ey'd fool, To shake the head, relent, and sigh, and yield To Christian intercessors. Follow not; I'll have no speaking; I will have my bond.

Salan. It is the most impenetrable cur That ever kept with men.

Ant. Let him alone;

I'll follow him no more with bootless prayers. He seeks my life; his reason well I know; I oft deliver'd from his forfeitures

Many that have at times made moan to me; Therefore he hates me.

Salan. I am sure, the duke Will never grant this forfeiture to hold.

Ant. The duke cannot deny the course of law; For the commodity that strangers have
With us in Venice, if it be denied,
Will much impeach the justice of the state;
Since that the trade and profit of the city
Consisteth of all nations. Therefore, go:
These griefs and losses have so 'bated me,
That I shall hardly spare a pound of flesh
To-morrow to my bloody creditor.—
Well, jailer, on:—Pray God, Bassanio come
To see me pay his debt, and then I care not!

I'll have my bond, as (cf. Elmsl. ad Med. 596, Dind. 609) decideally (aραρότως) we will hold-to the bond (γραφαί): the use of άραρότως renders the second translation of these words unnecessary. I will not hear, thou speakest to one that hears not, And dull eved, and having a downcast eye. And sigh, with sighs (στόνος). Intercessor, διαλλακτήρ. I'll have no speaking, enough of words. Impenetrable, &c., the dog more impenetrable (δυσπαραίτητος) than this never yet associated with the race of men. His reason, for the sake of what. Forfeiture, σύνθημα. Grant, ανέχεσθαι (with participle agreeing with the object). Deny the course, would never be able to lame (βλάπτειν) the foot of law. Commodity, τὰ ἀντηλλαγμένα. Will much impeach, would much (κάρτα) accuse the city (as) unjust. Since that the trade, for what land does not trade (to) great advantage (cf. Soph. Truch. 93) with the Heneti? Bate, loxvalvew. That I shail hardly spare, &c., so as to lack (σπανίζειν) flesh for which I am a debtor on the morrow (ès auplov) to the murderous man. And then I care not, and what care is the rest (τὸ ἐντεῦθεν) to me?

EXERCISE LXIV.

All is lost;

This foul Egyptian hath betrayed me: My fleet have yielded to the foe; and yonder They cast their caps up, and carouse together Like friends long lost.—Triple-turn'd whore! 'tis thou Hast sold me to this novice; and my heart Makes only wars on thee .- Bid them all fly: For when I am reveng'd upon my charm, I have done all :- Bid them all fly, begone. O sun, thy uprise shall I see no more: Fortune and Antony part here; even here Do we shake hands.—All come to this ?—The hearts That spaniel'd me at heels, to whom I gave Their wishes, do discandy, melt their sweets On blossoming Cæsar; and this pine is bark'd. That overtopp'd them all. Betray'd I am: O this false soul of Egypt! this grave charm, Whose eye beck'd forth my wars, and call'd them home; Whose bosom was my crownet, my chief end, Like a right gipsy, hath, at fast and loose, Beguil'd me to the very heart of loss.

Foul Egyptian, μῖσος Αἰγύπτιον. Fleet, ναυβάτης ὅχλος. Caps, κυνῆ. Cast up, προσαιθρίζειν. And carouse together, in intercourse of boon-companions. Lost, pass. of ἀφανίζω. ## EXERCISE LXV.

The barge she sat in, like a burnish'd throne. Burn'd on the water: the poop was beaten gold; Purple the sails, and so perfumed, that The winds were love-sick with them: the oars were silver: Which to the tune of flutes kept stroke, and made The water, which they beat, to follow faster. As amorous of their strokes. For her own person, It beggar'd all description: she did lie In her pavilion, (cloth of gold, of tissue,) O'erpicturing that Venus, where we see, The fancy out-work nature: on each side her, Stood pretty dimpled boys, like smiling Cupids, With diverse-colour'd fans, whose wind did seem To glow the delicate cheeks which they did cool, And what they undid, did. Her gentlewomen, like the Nereides, So many mermaids, tended her i' the eyes, And made their bends adornings: at the helm A seeming Mermaid steers; the silken tackle Swell with the touches of those flower-soft hands, That yarely frame the office. From the barge A strange invisible perfume hits the sense Of the adjacent wharfs.

Barge, βâριs. The poop was beaten gold, with poop of beaten gold (χρυσήλατες). Purple, φοινικόβαπτος. Love-sick, cf. Soph. Trach. 463. To tune of flutes kept stroke, with the flutes row-together (ὁμορροθεῖν) a-harmony (συναυλία). To follow faster, to quicken a-pursuit (δίωγμα). Beggared all description, but how could one succeed (ἐξικνεῖσθαι) in-speaking-of her-person. Cloth of gold, of tissue, χρυσόπαστος. The fancy outwork nature, in which art appears to surpass (ὑπερτελεῖν, ὑπερφέρειν) nature. Pretty dimpled boys, κόροι καλλίπαιδες. Fans, πτερόν. What they undid did, bound-up (συνάπτειν) that which was lossed. Mermaid, παρθένος θαλασσόπαις. Silken, άβρόπηνος. Flower-soft, ἀνθεμώδης. Frame the office, ὑπουρεῖν (ὑπηρετεῖν) χρέος. Strange, may be rendered by πῶς δοκεῖς; Hits the sense, βάλλειν ἔσω. Wharfs, ναύσταθμα, ναύλοχοι ἔδραι.

EXERCISE LXVI.

All good people, You that thus far have come to pity me, Hear what I say, and then go home and lose me. I have this day receiv'd a traitor's judgement, And by that name must die; yet, heaven bear witness, And if I have a conscience, let it sink me, Even as the axe falls, if I be not faithful! The law I bear no malice for my death, It has done, upon the premises, but justice: But those, that sought it, I could wish more Christians: Be what they will, I heartily forgive them: Yet let them look they glory not in mischief, Nor build their evils on the graves of great men; For then my guiltless blood must cry against them. For further life in this world I ne'er hope, Nor will I sue, although the king have mercies More than I dare make faults. You few that lov'd me, And dare be bold to weep for Buckingham, His noble friends, and fellows, whom to leave Is only bitter to him, only dying, Go with me, like good angels, to my end;

And, as the long divorce of steel falls on me, Make of your prayers one sweet sacrifice, And lift my soul to heaven.

All good people, kind presence of citizens. Hear what I say, having heard what I say then (elta) go home. And lose me, being deprived of me. I have received, judgment has been voted against (κατά) us as forsooth (δή) having-betrayed (aor. part.) our-country. By that name, κριθείς προδότης. Conscience, σύννοια. Let it sink me, let it evilly destroy me evil. As the axe falls, gen. part. fut. absol. Bear malice, μέμφεσθαι. Upon the premises, from at least the (things) stated-in-evidence. Those who sought it, mapalries. Christian, εὐσεβήs. Glory, χλιδάν, or χλίειν. Guiltless, shed, &c., παρ αΐσαν or ἐκδίκως. Cry, ἐγκαλεῖν. In this world, ἐνθάδε ών. Although the king, &c., Although the king might pardon more than even all the (καὶ ὁπόσος) sins (κακόν) I-myself should-dare to do. Few, I name not many, Buckingham, me, or this man, or this head, Fellows, ξυνάων. To my end, about to die. Long divorce of steel, bronzesmiting bite (δηγμα) dissolution of life. Make of your prayers, sucriμες with sweet prayers. Lift, προπέμπειν, πρόπομπος (είναι).

EXERCISE LXVII.

I could be well mov'd, if I were as you;
If I could pray to move, prayers would move me:
But I am constant as the northern star,
Of whose true-fix'd, and resting quality,
There is no fellow in the firmament.
The skies are painted with unnumber'd sparks,
They are all fire, and every one doth shine;
But there's but one in all doth hold his place:
So, in the world; 'tis furnish'd well with men,
And men are flesh and blood, and apprehensive;
Yet, in the number, I do know but one
That unassailable holds on his rank,

Unshak'd of motion: and, that I am he, Let me a little show it, even in this; That I was constant, Cimber should be banish'd, And constant do remain to keep him so.

EXERCISE LXVIII.

Eru. Portia, what mean you? Wherefore rise you now?

It is not for your health, thus to commit Your weak condition to the raw-cold morning.

Por. Nor for yours neither. You have ungently, Brutus,

Stole from my bed: and yesternight, at supper, You suddenly arose, and walk'd about,
Musing, and sighing, with your arms across:
And when I ask'd you what the matter was,
You star'd upon me with ungentle looks:
I urg'd you further; then you scratch'd your head,
And too impatiently stamp'd with your foot:
Yet I insisted, yet you answer'd not;
But, with an angry wafture of your hand,
Gave sign for me to leave you: so I did;
Fearing to strengthen that impatience,
Which seem'd too much enkindled; and, withal,

Hoping it was but an effect of humour,
Which sometime hath his hour with every man.
It will not let you eat, nor talk, nor sleep;
And, could it work so much upon your shape,
As it hath much prevail'd on your condition,
I should not know you, Brutus. Dear my lord,
Make me acquainted with your cause of grief.

Mean, πάσχειν. Rise now, move body from sleep thus unscassnably. For health, ἄνοσος. Condition, limbs. Raw cold morning, morning frosts. Nor for yours, ἀλλ' οὐδὲ κ.τ.λ. You have, who have. Stole, stole foot. Yesternight at supper, yesterday forsaking the evening table. Musing, cf. Soph. Antig. 20. Across, folded. What the matter was, where in-fortune (gen.) you happened (to be). Stared, directed ungentle glances (βολαί) of eyes. Urge, seek to know (gen. abs.). Scratch, strike. Stamped, beat ground with shoe. Insist, ἐπείγειν. But with an angry wafture, but threatened fearfully by shaking the hand, if I should not leave you out of sight. Strengthen impatience, add wrath to wrath. Effect of humour, φρενῶν πλάνη, πλάνημα, or πάθος. Which sometime, such as every (οὐδεὶς ὅστις οὐ) mortal suffers. Work upon, ἀλλάσσειν or παραλλάσσειν. Cause of grief, cf. Eur. Hipp. 903.

EXERCISE LXIX.

Gra. What's the matter?

Oth. Behold! I have a weapon;

A better never did itself sustain

Upon a soldier's thigh: I have seen the day,

That, with this little arm, and this good sword,

I have made my way through more impediments

Than twenty times your stop:—but, O vain boast!

Who can control his fate? 'tis not so now.—

Be not afraid, though you do see me weapon'd;

Here is my journey's end, here is my butt,

And very sea-mark of my utmost sail.

Do you go back dismay'd? 'tis a lost fear;

Man but a rush against Othello's breast,

And he retires:—Where should Othello go?—

Now, how dost thou look now? O ill-starr'd wench!

Pale as thy smock! when we shall meet at compt,

This look of thine will hurl my soul from heaven,

And fiends will snatch at it. Cold, cold, my girl?

Even like thy chastity.—

O cursed, cursed slave!—Whip me, ye devils,

From the possession of this heavenly sight!

Blow me about in winds! roast me in sulphur!

Wash me in steep-down gulfs of liquid fire!—

O Desdemona! Desdemona! dead?

Dead? O! O!

Sustain itself, ἀντερείδειν, or -εσθαι. That with this little arm and this good sword, when wielding this good sword with weak hand. I have made my way, I beat down far more impediments than you are able to throw in my way (ἐμποδών). Butt, σκοπός. Sea-mark, γραμμή. Μαη, ὁπλίζεσθαι, οr ἐξοπλίζεσθαι. At court, in last judyment. And fiends will snatch at it, a chase (θήραμα) for the goddlesses below. O, Desdemona, luckless-one (δ. σδαίμων), O luckless one. Dead? breathest thou yet? O! O! Alas (οἴμοι) yet again, eren in third cryings-of-alas (οἴμογμα): or perhaps better rendered by exclamations extra metrum, as in Soph. Trach. 1081—2, Phil. 730.

EXERCISE LXX.

To be, or not to be, that is the question:— Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer The stings and arrows of outrageous fortune; Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,

And, by opposing, end them?—To die,—to sleep,— No more; -and, by a sleep, to say we end The heart-ache, and the thousand natural shocks That flesh is heir to .- 'tis a consummation Devoutly to be wish'd. To die; to sleep; To sleep! perchance to dream;—ay, there's the rub: For in that sleep of death what dreams may come, When we have shufiled off this mortal coil, Must give us pause: there's the respect, That makes calamity of so long life: For who would bear the whips and scorns of time, The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely, The pangs of despis'd love, the law's delay, The insolence of office, and the spurns That patient merit of the unworthy takes, When he himself might his quietus make With a bare bodkin? who would fardels bear, To grunt and sweat under a weary life; But that the dread of something after death,-The undiscover'd country, from whose bourn No traveller returns,—puzzles the will; And makes us rather bear those ills we have, Than fly to others that we know not of?

To be, or not to be, behoves it to live longer or not? Is the question, to-be-sought. Slings, βέλοs. Sea, cf. Eur. Hipp. 822. To die ' to sleep? no more, is not death equal to sleep? And by a sleep to say, and if by sleep it is allowed. That flesh is heir to, of which the-mortal body is-by-nature possessor, cf. Soph. Ajax, 508. Devoutly to be wished, ξηλωτὸs ἄγαν. The rub, τὸ δύσφορον. Shufile off, ἐκδύενν. Coil, βάροs. Give pause, ἐμβάλλειν φροντίδα or ἐνθύμιον. Time, fortune. Pangs, cf. Soph. Trach. 42. Despised, <math>ὁ μάτην. Office, of ἐν τέλει. Merit, ὁ χρηστόs. Patient, τλημόνωs. When he himself, It being possible for him having drawn a dagger to obtain oblivion. Sweat, cf. Soph. Ajax, 10. Puzzles, σνγχεῖν.

EXERCISE LXXI.

King. I am not a day of season,
For thou mayst see a sunshine and a hail
In me at once: but to the brightest beams
Distracted clouds give way; so stand thou forth,
The time is fair again.

Ber. My high-repented blames, Dear sovereign, pardon to me.

King. All is whole;
Not one word more of the consumed time.
Let's take the instant by the forward top;
For we are old, and on our quick'st decrees
The inaudible and noiseless foot of time
Steals ere we can effect them: you remember
The daughter of this lord?

Ber. Admiringly, my liege: at first I stuck my choice upon her, ere my heart Durst make too bold a herald of my tongue: Where the impression of mine eye infixing, Contempt his scornful perspective did lend me, Which warp'd the line of every other favour; Scorn'd a fair colour, or express'd it stol'n; Extended or contracted all proportions, To a most hideous object: thence it came, That she, whom all men prais'd, and whom myself, Since I have lost, have lov'd, was in mine eye The dust that did offend it.

I am not a day of season, I have not the thorough-wet nature of the Hyades. The time is fair, the sky smiles. My high-repented blames, what having much sinned I much regretted. Is whole, ἔχειν λυτήριον ἄκοs. Forward top, προύχουσα ἀκμή. Steals, gently (ήσυ-

EXERCISE LXXII.

Lor. The moon shines bright:—In such a night as this.

When the sweet wind did gently kiss the trees, And they did make no noise; in such a night, Troilus, methinks, mounted the Trojan walls, And sigh'd his soul toward the Grecian tents, Where Cressid lay that night.

Jes. In such a night
Did Thisbe fearfully o'ertrip the dew;
And saw the lion's shadow ere himself,
And ran dismay'd away.

Lor. In such a night
Stood Dido with a willow in her hand
Upon the wild sea-banks, and wav'd her love
To come again to Carthage.

Jes. In such a night
Medea gather'd the enchanted herbs
That did renew old Æson.

Lor. In such a night
Did Jessica steal from the wealthy Jew:
And with an unthrift love did run from Venice,
As far as Belmont.

Jes. And in such a night
Did young Lorenzo swear he lov'd her well;

Stealing her soul with many vows of faith, And ne'er a true one.

Lor. And in such a night Did pretty Jessica, like a little shrew, Slander her love, and he forgave it her.

Sweet, εὐāήs. Did gently kiss, was moving with gentle touchings  $(\pi\rho\sigma\sigma\beta\circ\lambda\alpha i)$  of kisses. Methinks, ώς εἰκάσαι, or ἐπεικάσαι. #### EXERCISE LXXIII.

I shall lack voice: the deeds of Coriolanus
Should not be utter'd feebly.—It is held,
That valour is the chiefest virtue, and
Most dignifies the haver: if it be,
The man I speak of cannot in the world
Be singly counterpois'd. At sixteen years,
When Tarquin made a head for Rome, he fought
Beyond the mark of others: our then dictator,
Whom with all praise I point at, saw him fight,
When with his Amazonian chin he drove
The bristled lips before him: he bestrid
An o'erpress'd Roman, and i' the consul's view
Slew three opposers: Tarquin's self he met,
And struck him on his knee: in that day's feats,

When he might act the woman in the scene. He prov'd best man i' the field, and for his meed Was brow-bound with the oak. His pupil age Man-entered thus, he waxed like a sea: And, in the brunt of seventeen battles since. He lurch'd all swords o' the garland.

Lack, I shall not suffice (ἀρκεῖν) in-telling. Feebly, with humble mouth. The man I speak of, you cannot find among mortals one man equal (αντίρροπος) to this-one. At sixteen years, having completed a sixth year in-addition-to (ἐπί) ten. When with his Amazonian chin, nourishing a bare cheek like an Amazon, making mock of shady chins. Bestrid, ἀμφιβαίνειν. When he might act, it being possible to imitate a woman-like (γυναικόμορφος) act. In the field, έν πείρα δομός. His pupil age, having thus in youth shewn himself, ανδρόπαις ανήρ. He lurched all swords, cf. Soph. Ajax, 435.

EXERCISE LXXIV.

Know, then, it is your fault, that you resign The supreme seat, the throne majestical; The sceptred office of your ancestors, Your state of fortune, and your due of birth, The lineal glory of your royal house, To the corruption of a blemish'd stock: Whilst, in the mildness of your sleepy thoughts, (Which here we waken to our country's good,) The noble isle doth want her proper limbs; Her face defac'd with scars of infamy, Her royal stock graft with ignoble plants, And almost shoulder'd in the swallowing gulf Of dark forgetfulness and deep oblivion. Which to recure, we heartily solicit Your gracious self to take on you the charge

And kingly government of this your land:
Not as protector, steward, substitute,
Or lowly factor for another's gain:
But as successively from blood to blood,
Your right of birth, your empery, your own.
For this, consorted with the citizens,
Your very worshipful and loving friends,
And by their vehement instigation,
In this just suit come I to move your grace.

Know then, know then that thou-erredst thyself who (ὅστις) resignest. Seeptred office, σκηπτουχία. Lineal, πατρώος οτ ὁ πατρόθεν. Corruption of a blemished stock, αἶσχος νοθαγενές. Whilst in the mildness, &c., meanwhile thou sleepest the sleep of an easy (ῥάθυμος) soul from which we rouse thee, so providing for (προσκοπεῖσθαι) our country's common weal. Shoulder'd, ποντίζεσθαι. Gulf of dark forgetfulness, σκότου κευθμών. Deep oblivion, λήθης βάθος. Your gracious self, thyself, O excellent prince. Lowly factor for, slavishly working out. But as successively, cf. Soph. Antig. 174. Consorted with, συνέμπορος. Your very worshipful, revering thee greatly (κάρτα) in loving feelings (φρύνημα).

EXERCISE LXXV.

Sir, I desire you, do me right and justice;
And to bestow your pity on me: for
I am a most poor woman, and a stranger,
Born out of your dominions; having here
No judge indifferent, nor no more assurance
Of equal friendship and proceeding. Alas, Sir,
In what have I offended you? what cause
Hath my behaviour given to your displeasure,
That thus you should proceed to put me off,
And take your good grace from me? Heaven witness,
I have been to you a true and humble wife,

At all times to your will conformable:

Ever in fear to kindle your dislike,
Yea, subject to your countenance; glad, or sorry,
As I saw it inclin'd. When was the hour,
I ever contradicted your desire,
Or made it not mine too? Or which of your friends
Have I not strove to love, although I knew
He were mine enemy? what friend of mine
That had to him deriv'd your anger, did I Continue in my liking? nay, give notice
He was from thence discharg'd?

Desire, ἀξιοῦν. Do right and justice, ὀρθὴν καὶ ἔννομον κρίνειν δίκην τινί. Bestow, νέμειν. Nor no more assurance, None whom I may trust that he will gire (διαφέρειν) an equal vote with equal mind. In what, πῶς; That, ἄνθ' ὧν. Put me off, παρωθεῖν τὰ ἐμὰ λέχη. Conformable, ὑφειμένος, also cf. Eur. Med. 13. Το kindle your dislike, lest I (τὰ ἐμά) should-become bitter to-thee. Yea subject to your countenance, watching thy visage, how it inclined, joying with thee joyons, saddened with thee sad. Or made it not mine too, and wished not everything with thee wishing. Strove to love, loved in-spite-of inclination (φρένες). That had to him derived, κεκτημένος. Gave notice, κατειπεῖν. Discharged, ἐκβάλλεσθαι οι ἐκπίπτεν.

EXERCISE LXXVI.

Tal. O young John Talbot! I did send for thee,
To tutor thee in stratagems of war;
That Talbot's name might be in thee reviv'd,
When sapless age, and weak unable limbs,
Should bring thy father to his drooping chair.
But,—O malignant and ill-boding stars!—
Now thou art come unto a feast of death,
A terrible and unavoided danger:
Therefore, dear boy, mount on my swiftest horse;

And I'll direct thee how thou shalt escape By sudden flight: come, dally not, be gone.

John. Is my name Talbot? and am I your son? And shall I fly? O, if you love my mother, Dishonour not her honourable name,
To make a bastard and a slave of me:
The world will say—He is not Talbot's blood,
That basely fled, when noble Talbot stood.

Tal. Fly, to revenge my death, if I be slain.

John. He, that flies so, will ne'er return again.

Tal. If we both stay, we both are sure to die.

John. Then let me stay; and, father, do you fly:

Your loss is great, so your regard should be;

My worth unknown, no loss is known in me.

Upon my death the French can little boast;

In yours they will, in you all hopes are lost.

Flight cannot stain the honour you have won;

But mine it will, that no exploit have done:

You fled for vantage every one will swear;

But, if I bow, they'll say—it was for fear.

There is no hope that ever I will stay,

If, the first hour, I shrink, and run away. Here, on my knee, I beg mortality,

Rather than life preserv'd with infamy.

Tal. Shall all thy mother's hopes lie in one tomb?

John. Ay, rather than I'll shame my mother's womb.

Tal. Upon my blessing I command thee go.

John. To fight I will, but not to fly the foe.

Tal. Part of thy father may be sav'd in thee.

John. No part of him, but will be shame in me.

Tal. Thou never hadst renown, nor canst not lose it.

John. Yes, your renowned name; shall flight abuse it?

Tal. Thy father's charge shall clear thee from that stain.

John. You cannot witness for me, being slain. If death be so apparent, then both fly.

Tal. And leave my followers here, to fight, and die?

My age was never tainted with such shame.

John. And shall my youth be guilty of such blame? No more can I be sever'd from your side,
Than can yourself yourself in twain divide:
Stay, go, do what you will, the like do I;
For live I will not, if my father die.

Tal. Then here I take my leave of thee, fair son, Born to eclipse thy life this afternoon.

Come, side by side together live and die;

And soul with soul from France to heaven fly.

Young John Talbot, son of-the-same-name with-me. Send for, πέμπεσθαι. Tutor, ἐκδιδάσκειν. Talbot's, my. Be revived, ἀνηβάν or ήβαν πάλιν. Sapless, ξηρός. O malignant, for this day has evil omens. Now thou art come, thou-art-present at (cis) man devouring (ἀνδροβρώς) murders. Come, εία. Dally not, cf. Soph. Antig. 577. My mother, thy wife and (ôé) my mother. And a slave, slave instead-of free. The world, mortals will say that I am not thy son, if I fly basely while my father stays. Fly to revenge, fly that thou mayest return, avenger of death to thy father. He that flies so, but who flying thus would return again? Your loss is great, if thou, being slain, the calamity is severe, thou oughtest to value (πρεσβεύειν) thine own life. My worth unknown, but I, being unknown (ασημος), of how much (δσονπερ) I am worthy, shall be lightly esteemed in death. Can little boast, cf. Eur. Troad. 1250. French, Κέλται. For vantage, δφέλους ούνεκα. The first hour, when-I-came (ἐλθών) first into battle. On my knee1, γονυπετής. Mortality, to die. Life preserved, to buy a life of shame. Upon my blessing, fly if thou regardest thy father's vows. No part of him, what part pray γονυπετής means "falling at the knees (of the person entreated)" rather than "falling on the knees."

so as not to bring-on ( $\mu\eta$  or with participle, cf. Soph. E. T. 221) me some disgrace? Thou never hadst, &c. thou couldst not fall-from fame that never existed ( $\delta \mu\eta\pi\sigma\tau'$  & $\nu$ ). Followers,  $\xi\nu\nu\delta\omega\nu$ . My age, not yet though old have I contracted ( $\epsilon\iota\rho\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$ ) this disgrace. My youth, I, a youth. No more can I, &c. no more shalt thou forcibly divide me (so as) not to be with-thee ( $\xi\chi\epsilon\nu$   $\pi\alpha\rho\nu\nu\sigma\delta\alpha\nu$ ) than thyself. Stay, go, in thee is my part ( $\tau\delta$  è $\mu\delta\nu$ ) whether, to stay here or to thy, or what of other things thou wilt. Take my leave, address thee for the last time. Come side by side, &c. it behoves to live and die together, and together from this land to seek the abode of heaven.

EXERCISE LXXVII.

Stan. Fortune and victory sit on thy helm!
Richm. All comfort that the dark night can afford,
Be to thy person, noble father-in-law!
Tell me, how fares our loving mother?
Stan. I, by attorney, bless thee from thy mother,

Who prays continually for Richmond's good; So much for that.—The silent hours steal on, And flaky darkness breaks within the east. In brief, for so the season bids us be, Prepare thy battle early in the morning; And put thy fortune to the arbitrement Of bloody strokes, and mortal-staring war. I, as I may, (that which I would, I cannot,) With best advantage will deceive the time, And aid thee in this doubtful shock of arms: But on thy side I may not be too forward, Lest, being seen, thy brother, tender George Be executed in his father's sight: Farewell: the leisure and the fearful time Cuts off the ceremonious vows of love, And ample interchange of sweet discourse,

Which so long sunder'd friends should dwell upon; God give us leisure for these rites of love! Once more adieu:—be valiant, and speed well!

Sit on, προσίζειν. All comfort, may you profit (2nd aor. of ονίναμαι) as much profit (ὅνησις) at-least as (is) from the darkness of night. By attorney, διάδοχος. So much for that, εἶεν. Silent hours steal on, (the) hours steal a flight with noiseless (ἄψοφος) step. Within the east, from-the-east. Arbitroment, ἔλεγχος. Mortal staring war γοργωπὸς μάχη. I cannot, cf. Antig. 79. Doubtful, equally-poised. Interchange, ἀμοιβαί, μεταλλαγαί. Sweet discourse, εὐφιλῆ προσφθέγματα.

EXERCISE LXXVIII.

Gaunt. All places that the eye of heaven visits, Are to a wise man ports and happy havens. Teach thy necessity to reason thus; There is no virtue like necessity. Think not the king did banish thee, But thou the king: woe doth the heavier sit, Where it perceives it is but faintly borne. Go, say-I sent thee forth to purchase honour, And not-The king exiled thee: or suppose, Devouring pestilence hangs in our air, And thou art flying to a fresher clime. Look, what thy soul holds dear, imagine it To lie that way thou go'st not whence thou com'st: Suppose the singing birds musicians, The grass whereon thou tread'st the presence strew'd, The flowers fair ladies, and thy steps no more Than a delightful measure, or a dance; For gnarling sorrow hath less power to bite The man that mocks at it, and sets it light.

Boling. O, who can hold a fire in his hand,
By thinking on the frosty Caucasus?
Or cloy the hungry edge of appetite,
By bare imagination of a feast?
Or wallow naked in December snow,
By thinking on fantastic summer's heat?
O, no! the apprehension of the good
Gives but the greater feeling to the worse:
Fell sorrow's tooth doth never rankle more,
Than when it bites, but lanceth not the sore.

Gaunt. Come, come, my son, I'll bring thee on thy way.

Had I thy youth and cause, I would not stay.

Boling. Then, England's ground, farewell; sweet

My mother, and my nurse, that bears me yet!
Where'er I wander, boast of this I can,— Though banish'd, yet a true-born Englishman.

soil. adieu:

Ports and happy havens, εὔορμος λιμήν. When it perceives, when it-knows-of (συνειδέναι dat.) one-bearing (it) ill (δυσλόφως). Το purchase honour, τιμῆς κατὰ ζήτησιν, or ἐμπόλημα. Devouring, βρωτήρ. Hangs, αἰωρεῖσθαι. Fair ladies, καλλιπάρθενος χάρις or χλιδή. Than a delightful measure, (think) that you dance pleasantly in rhythmical (εὕρυθμος) measures (ὅρχημα). Cloy, ἀμβλύνειν. Wallow, ἐγκαλινδεῖσθαι. By thinking on, thinking of (ἐννοεῖν) the hot (part) of summer, an empty fancy. Rankle, ἐλκοῦν. Lanceth, διαμπερὲς τέμνειν. Bring on way, ὁδοῦ προπομπὸς εἶναι. England's ground, γῆ Βρεταννίς. My nurse, ὧ θρέψασά με. True-born, γνησίως πεφυκέναι.

EXERCISE LXXIX.

Ant. Tell me, Panthino, what sad talk was that, Wherewith my brother held you in the cloister?

Pan. 'Twas of his nephew Proteus, your son.

Ant. Why, what of him?

Pan. He wonder'd that your lordship
Would suffer him to spend his youth at home;
While other men, of slender reputation,
Put forth their sons to seek preferment out:
Some, to the wars, to try their fortune there;
Some, to discover islands far away:
Some, to the studious universities.
For any or for all these exercises,
He said, that Proteus, your son, was meet,
And did request me to impórtune you,
To let him spend his time no more at home,
Which would be great impeachment to his age,

In having known no travel in his youth.

Sad, earnest. Wherewith,  $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\phi}$   $\dot{\phi}$ . Cloister,  $a\dot{v}\lambda\dot{\epsilon}la\ \sigma\tau\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\eta$ . Spend his youth at home,  $\ddot{\eta}\beta\eta\nu$  olkovpe $\hat{\nu}\nu$ . Preferment,  $\dot{a}\dot{\epsilon}t\omega\mu a$ . Some to the wars, some as going-to-venture (κυβεύεω) fortune of-Ares. To discover, going-to-colonize an island, a distant search. Studious universities, cf. Soph. Frag. 779. Meet,  $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{\nu}\phi\nu\dot{\eta}s$ . To his age, to (him when) an old man. In his youth, (to him) young.

EXERCISE LXXX.

Lys. How now, my love? Why is your cheek so pale?

How chance the roses there do fade so fast?

Her. Belike, for want of rain; which I could well Beteem them from the tempest of mine eyes.

Lys. Ah me! for aught that ever I could read,

Could ever hear by tale or history,
The course of true love never did run smooth:
But, either it was different in blood;

Her. O cross! too high to be enthrall'd to low!

Lys. Or else misgraffed, in respect of years;

Her. O spite! too old to be engaged to young!

Lys. Or else it stood upon the choice of friends:

Her. O hell! to choose love by another's eye!

Lys. Or, if there were a sympathy in choice, War, death, or sickness did lay siege to it; Making it momentary as a sound, Swift as a shadow, short as any dream; Brief as the lightning in the collied night, That, in a spleen, unfolds both heaven and earth, And ere a man hath power to say,—Behold! The jaws of darkness to devour it up: So quick bright things come to confusion.

How now? what matter (is there)? Pale, ἄναιμος. Belike, to conjecture. For want of, not-having-tasted. Tempest of mine eyes, χειμών ὁμματοσταγής. Read, do not use ἀναγιγνώσκειν, but διέρχεσθαι, ἐκπερῶν οτ ζητεῖν. Different, ἀνώμαλος. O cross, terrible (that) the well-born (should) be yoked to the ill-born. O, spite, στυγνόν. It stood upon, or some choice of friends ratified it. O, hell, alaî. Another's, θυραῖος. Lay siege, προσῆσθαι. Short as any dream, Ισόνειρος. Collied, obscured, black. Spleen, flash. Do devour, are first (φθάνειν) (in) devouring. Bright, λαμπρός.

EXERCISE LXXXI.

Luc. Give us the proudest prisoner of the Goths, That we may hew his limbs, and, on a pile, Ad manes fratrum sacrifice his flesh, Before this earthy prison of their bones;

That so the shadows be not unappeased, Nor we disturb'd with prodigies on earth.

Tit. I give him you; the noblest that survives, The eldest son of this distressed queen.

Tam. Stay, Roman brethren!—Gracious conquercr. Victorious Titus, rue the tears I shed, A mother's tears in passion for her son: And, if thy sons were ever dear to thee, O, think my son to be as dear to me. Sufficeth not that we are brought to Rome To beautify thy triumphs, and return, Captive to thee and to thy Roman yoke; But must my sons be slaughter'd in the streets, For valiant doings in their country's cause? O! if to fight for king and commonweal Were piety in thine, it is in these. Andronicus, stain not thy tomb with blood: Wilt thou draw near the nature of the gods? Draw near them, then in being merciful; Sweet mercy is nobility's true badge: Thrice-noble Titus, spare my first-born son.

Proudest, most noble. Hew, διαρταμεῖν. Ad manes fratrum, cf. Esch. Choeph. 15. Persæ 610. Earthly prison, φράγμα κατῶρνξ. Unappeased, ἄθελκτος. On earth, participle of βλέπεω οτ ὁρῶν in agreement with "we". A mother's tears, (I) a mother on account of a son, a most painful passion. Sufficeth not, do not we suffec (ἀρκεῖν) brought to Rome? To beautify, (as) an ornament (ἀγλαῖσμα, ἄγαλμα,) of thy victory-bearing return. For valiant doings, because they acted-bravely (ἀριστεύειν). Draw near, ὁμοιοῖσθαι. In being merciful, (in) fostering a kindly (πρευμενής) spirit. Nobility—noble, use kindred words.

EXERCISE LXXXII.

Cleo. I dream'd there was an emperor Antony:—
O, such another sleep, that I might see
But such another man!

Dol. If it might please you,-

Cleo. His face was as the heavens; and therein stuck A sun and moon, which kept their course, and lighted The little O, the earth.

Dol. Most sovereign creature,—

Cleo. His legs bestrid the ocean: his rear'd arm Crested the world: his voice was propertied As all the tuned spheres, and that to friends; But when he meant to quail and shake the orb, He was as rattling thunder. For his bounty, There was no winter in't; an autumn 'twas, That grew the more by reaping: his delights Were dolphin-like; they shew'd his back above The element they lived in: in his livery Walk'd crowns and crownets; realms and islands were As plates dropp'd from his pocket.

Dol. Cleopatra —

Cleo. Think you there was, or might be, such a man As this I dream'd of?

I dreamed, in-a-dream I saw Antony a king. If it might please you, if these-things are in-no-wise displeasing (ἀφανδάνειν) to thee. Kept their course, drove in brilliant courses. The little O, the little plain of the orbed (εὔκυκλος) earth. Bestrid, ἀμφιβαίνειν. His reared arm, over the earth the outstretchings of-his-hands were a crown (θριγκός). Tuned, ἀραρώς. His delights, and he sported like a dolphin and shewed-forth his back on-high (μετάρσιος) (from) his customary haunts (ξυνήθεις ἐπιστροφαί). In his livery, and there was an attending (ὁπισθόπους) array of ornaments and crowns. Plates, νόμισμα. Pocket, girdle. Was, 2nd aor. of φύω. Might be, fut. of γίγνομαι.

EXERCISE LXXXIII.

FOR ANAPÆSTIC VERSE.

Now strike the golden lyre again:
A louder yet and yet a louder strain,

Break his bands of sleep asunder,

And rouse him like a rattling peal of thunder.

Hark, hark, the horrid sound .

Has raised up his head,

As awaked from the dead

And amazed he stares around.

Revenge, revenge! Timotheus cries,

See the furies arise!

See the snakes that they rear,

How they hiss in their hair,

And the sparkles that flash from their eyes!

Behold a ghastly band,

Each a torch in his hand!

Those are the Grecian ghosts that in battle were slain

And unburied remain

Inglorious on the plain.

Give the vengeance due

To the valiant crew.

Behold how they toss their torches on high,

How they point to the Persian abodes,

And glittering temples of their hostile gods!

The princes applaud with a furious joy,

And the king seized a flambeau with zeal to destroy,

Thais led the way

To light him to his prey,

And like another Helen fired another Troy.

Now, νὺν δή. Strike, πλήκτρω κροτεῖν or κρέκειν. Golden, χρυσεόνωτος. A louder, let the sound go from the strings great, and yet again greater. The horrid sound, he raised (ἀνακονφίζειν) his head already at (πρὸς οτ ὑπό) the fearful sound. Awaked, ἀρυπνίζεσθαι. Stare around, περιπαπταίνειν. Revenge, render by imperatives, or Come, come, Justice. Arise, ἀναφαίνεσθαι. ἐπανίστασθαι, Rear, μετεωρίζειν. Hiss, σύριγμα ἰέναι, συρίζειν. Ghastly, ώχρός. In his hand, διὰ χειρὸς ἔχειν. Were slain, θάνατον κιγχάνειν. Unburied, ἄμορος τάφον. Due, ὅπερ ᾶξιόν ἐστι. Toss on high, ἀνασείειν. Point to, mark (ἀποδηλοῦν) the finger-shewn abodes. Hostile, ἀντίπαλος. With zeal, μάλα ἐπειγόνενος. Led the way, παραφαίνειν. Another (ἔτερος) bring together "another" and "another", "Helen" and "Troy".

EXERCISE LXXXIV.

Luc. Better forbear, till Protheus make return.

Jul. Oh, know'st thou not, his looks are my soul's food!

Pity the dearth that I have pined in,

By longing for that food so long a time.

Did'st thou but know the inly touch of love,

Thou wouldst as soon go kindle fire with snow,

As seek to quench the fire of love with words.

Luc. I do not seek to quench your love's hot fire; But qualify the fire's extreme rage,
Lest it should burn above the bounds of reason.

Jul. The more thou damm'st it up, the more it burns: The current, that with gentle murmur glides, Thou know'st, being stopp'd, impatiently doth rage; But, when his fair course is not hindered, He makes sweet music with th' enamell'd stones, Giving a gentle kiss to every sedge He overtaketh in his pilgrimage; And so by many winding nooks he strays,

With willing sport, to the wild ocean. Then let me go, and hinder not my course: I'll be as patient as a gentle stream, And make a pastime of each weary step, Till the last step have brought me to my love: And there I'll rest, as, after much turmoil, A blessed soul doth in Elysium.

Know'st thou not his looks are my soul's food? Know'st thou not τουμών how I am wholly fed by his aspect? Pity, therefore you ought to pity. As soon...as, rather...than. Qualify...lest, κατασχείν un (with infin.). The more thou damm'st it up, to one restraining more. Being stopp'd, any one stopping (φράσσειν). Impatiently, without bit. Sedge, χλόη. Pilgrimage, πλανοστιβής όδός. Doth in Eivsium, hath divine repose.

EXERCISE LXXXV.

Duke. Sir Valentine, whither away so fast? Val. Please it your grace, there is a messenger That stays to bear my letters to my friends, And I am going to deliver them.

Duke. Be they of much import? Val. The tenor of them doth but signify My health, and happy being at your court.

Duke. Nay then no matter; stay with me awhile; I am to break with thee of some affairs, That touch me near, wherein thou must be secret. 'Tis not unknown to thee, that I have sought To match my friend, Sir Thurio, to my daughter.

Val. I know it well, my lord; and sure the match Were rich and honourable; besides, the gentleman Is full of virtue, bounty, worth, and qualities

Beseeming such a wife as your fair daughter: Cannot your grace win her to fancy him?

Duke. No, trust me; she is peevish, sullen, froward, Proud, disobedient, stubborn, lacking duty; Neither regarding that she is my child, Nor fearing me as if I were her father:
And, may I say to thee, this pride of hers, Upon advice, hath drawn my love from her; And, where I thought the remnant of mine age Should have been cherish'd by her child-like duty, I now am full resolv'd to take a wife, And turn her out to who will take her in: Then let her beauty be her wedding-dower; For me, and my possessions, she esteems not.

Sir Valentine (omit). Please it, your grace, if no harm, my lord. Of...import,  $\sigma\pi$ ovõaîos. I am to break with thee, since (it is) needful that I impart. To take a wife,  $\theta\iota\gamma\epsilon\hat{\iota}\nu$ , a second bed. Weddingdower,  $\phi\epsilon\rho\nu$ ai. Esteems not, ovõa $\mu$ oõ  $\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\epsilon\iota\nu$ .

EXERCISE LXXXVI.

Why, Phaeton, (for thou art Merops' son)
Wilt thou aspire to guide the heavenly car,
And with thy daring folly burn the world?
Wilt thou reach stars, because they shine on thee?
Go, base intruder! over-weening slave!
Bestow thy fawning smiles on equal mates;
And think, my patience, more than thy desert,
Is privilege for thy departure hence:
Thank me for this, more than for all the favours,
Which, all too much, I have bestow'd on thee.

But if thou linger in my territories,
Longer than swiftest expedition
Will give thee time to leave our royal court,
By heaven, my wrath shall far exceed the love
I ever bore my daughter, or thyself.
Begone, I will not hear thy vain excuse,
But, as thou lov'st thy life, make speed from hence.

Merop,  $M \epsilon \rho \delta \pi \eta$ . Heavenly,  $\phi o i \beta \epsilon \hat{i} o s$ . And think, &c., and know well thou hast escaped more on account of my compassionate character than of thy desert.

EXERCISE LXXXVII.

Duke. Now, my co-mates, and brothers in exile, Hath not old custom made this life more sweet Than that of painted pomp? Are not these woods More free from peril than the envious court? Here feel we but the penalty of Adam, The seasons' difference; as the icy fang. And churlish chiding of the winter's wind; Which when it bites and blows upon my body, Even till I shrink with cold, I smile, and say,-This is no flattery: these are counsellors That feelingly persuade me what I am. Sweet are the uses of adversity; Which, like the toad, ugly and venomous, Wears yet a precious jewel in his head; And this our life, exempt from public haunt, Finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, Sermons in stones, and good in every thing. Ami. I would not change it. Happy is your grace, That can translate the stubbornness of fortune Into so quiet and so sweet a style.

Duke. Come, shall we go and kill us venison? And yet it irks me, the poor dappled fools,—
Being native burghers of this desert city,—
Should in their own confines, with forked heads,
Have their round haunches gor'd.

Old custom, ὁ συνήθης χρόνος. Of Adam, πρώταρχος. Difference. successive orbits. Feelingly-persuade, πάθει μαθεῖν τιθέναι. Dappled, ποικιλόθριξ. With forked heads, with δικραῖ ἀκμαί of arrows.

EXERCISE LXXXVIII.

Puc. Look on thy country, look on fertile France, And see the cities and the towns defac'd By wasting ruin of the cruel foe!
As looks the mother on her lowly babe,
When death doth close his tender dying eyes,
See, see, the pining malady of France;
Behold the wounds, the most unnatural wounds,
Which thou thyself hast given her woeful breast!
O, turn thy edged sword another way;
Strike those that hurt, and hurt not those that help!
One drop of blood, drawn from thy country's bosom,
Should grieve thee more than streams of foreign gore;
Return thee, therefore, with a flood of tears,
And wash away thy country's stained spots!

Bur. Either she hath bewitch'd me with her words, Or nature makes me suddenly relent.

Puc. Besides, all French and France exclaims on thee, Doubting thy birth and lawful progeny.

Who join'st thou with, but with a lordly nation. That will not trust thee, but for profit's sake? When Talbot hath set footing once in France, And fashion'd thee that instrument of ill. Who then, but English Henry, will be lord, And thou be thrust out, like a fugitive? Call we to mind,—and mark but this, for proof :-Was not the Duke of Orleans thy foe? And was he not in England prisoner? But, when they heard he was thine enemy, They set him free, without his ransom paid, In spite of Burgundy, and all his friends. See then! thou fight'st against thy countrymen, And join'st with them will be thy slaughter-men. Come, come, return; return, thou wand'ring lord; Charles, and the rest, will take thee in their arms.

France, ἡ Κελτική. Defaced, robbed of former beauty. Unnatural, most odious sight. Foreign, ἔπακτος. Doubting, διχορρόπως ἔχεω. And fashion'd thee that instrument of ill, and thou by his workmanship art become contriver of such evil. Duko of Orleans, τύραννον τέκνον. Burgundy, σύ. Charles, the king.

EXERCISE LXXXIX.

Ah, who is nigh? come to me, friend or foe,
And tell me who is victor, York or Warwick?
Why ask I that? my mangled body shows,
My blood, my want of strength, my sick heart shows,
That I must yield my body to the earth,
And, by my fall, the conquest to the foe.
Thus yields the cedar to the axe's edge,
Whose arms gave shelter to the princely eagle,

Under whose shade the ramping lion slept: Whose top-branch overpeer'd Jove's spreading tree. And kept low shrubs from winter's powerful wind. These eyes, that now are dimm'd with death's black veil. Have been as piercing as the mid-day sun, To search the secret treasons of the world: The wrinkles in my brows, now fill'd with blood. Were liken'd oft to kingly sepulchres; For who liv'd king, but I could dig his grave? And who durst smile, when Warwick bent his brow? Lo, now my glory smear'd in dust and blood! My parks, my walks, my manors that I had, Even now forsake me; and of all my lands Is nothing left me but my body's length! Why, what is pomp, rule, reign, but earth and dust? And, live we how we can, vet die we must.

York, Οὔορκος. Warwick, Βάροικος. Why ask I that? τί μήν; Ramping, ἀμηστής. Bent his brow, συννέφειν ὅμματα. My parks, my walks, my manors, ἄλση ἀγροί τε.

EXERCISE XC.

FOR ANAPÆSTS.

I charm thy life
From the weapons of strife,
From stone and from wood,
From fire and from flood,
From the serpent's tooth,
And the beasts of blood.
From sickness I charm thee,
And time shall not harm thee,

But earth, which is mine. Its fruits shall deny thee: And water shall hear me. And know thee, and fly thee. And the winds shall not touch thee, When they pass by thee, And the dews shall not wet thee, When they fall nigh thee, And thou shalt seek death To release thee, in vain; Thou shalt live in thy pain, While Kehama shall reign, With a fire in thy heart, . And a fire in thy brain. And sleep shall obey me, And visit thee never; And the curse shall be on thee For ever and ever.

I charm...from, I ward off, ἐπάδων. Kehama, Καθμις.

EXERCISE XCI.

This way the noise was, if mine ear be true,
My best guide now: methought it was the sound
Of riot and ill-managed merriment,
Such as the jocund flute, or gamesome pipe,
Stirs up among the loose unlettered hinds;
When for their teeming flocks, and granges full,
In wanton dance they praise the bounteous Pan,
And thank the gods amiss. I should be loth
To meet the rudeness and swill'd insolence

Of such late wassailers: yet, oh! where else Shall I inform my unacquainted feet
In the blind mazes of this tangled wood?
My brothers, when they saw me wearied out
With this long way, resolving here to lodge
Under the spreading favour of these pines,
Stept, as they said, to the next thicket side,
To bring me berries, or such cooling fruit
As the kind hospitable woods provide.
They left me then, when the grey-hooded even,
Like a sad votarist in palmer's weed,
Rose from the hindmost wheels of Phæbus' wain.

If mine ear be true, if a sure sign reached mine ears. Stirs up among the loose unlettered hinds, &c., stirs up a throng of herdsmen to their muscless and unchastened pleasure. Amiss, with thankless thanks. Yet, oh, &c., but whence else can I find an indicator, (by) what paths I must withdraw my inexperienced foot from this  $\ddot{v}\lambda\eta$   $\delta v\sigma \epsilon \dot{v}\rho \epsilon \tau \sigma s$ .

EXERCISE XCII.

Leicester, if gentle words might comfort me,
Thy speeches long ago had eas'd my sorrows;
For kind and loving hast thou always been.
The griefs of private men are soon allay'd,
But not of kings. The forest deer, being struck,
Runs to a herb that closeth up the wounds;
But when the imperial lion's flesh is gored,
He rends and tears it with his wrathful paw,
And highly scorning that the lowly earth
Should drink his blood, mounts up to th' air.
And so it fares with me, whose dauntless mind
Th' ambitious Mortimer would seek to curb;

And that unnatural queen, false Isabel,
That thus hath pent and mur'd me in a prison;
For such outrageous passions cloy my soul,
As with the wings of rancour and disdain
Full oft am I soaring up to high heav'n
To plain me to the gods against them both.
But when I call to mind I am a king,
Methinks I should revenge me of the wrongs
That Mortimer and Isabel have done.
But what are kings when regiment is gone,
But perfect shadows in a sunshine day?
My nobles rule,—I bear the name of king.

Leicester, O dearest. Mortimer, Μόρτιμβροs. Isabel, my wife.

EXERCISE XCIII.

King. Methought, Archimagus, as I was praying I' the temple near the sea, my queen, my sons, Daughters, and train of my nobility, Prostrate before the altar, on the sudden The roof did open, and from heaven a flame Descending on the images of our gods, Began to burn the sacred brows; from which Many deformed worms and hideous serpents Came crawling forth, and leaped unto our throats, Where, with their horrid circles and embrace. We were almost strangled; in this fright, methought We fled out of the temple, and as soon We saw a pale man coming from the sea, Attended by a tribe of reverend men, At whose approach the serpents all unchained

Themselves, and leaving our imprisoned necks,
Crept into the earth: straight all that were with me,
As I had been the prodigy, forsook me,
My wife, my children, lords, my servants all,
And fled to this pale man, who told me I
Must submit too, humble myself to him,
This withered piece of man! at which, methought
I felt a trembling shoot through every part,
And with the horror thus to be deposed
I wakened. Now, Archimagus, thy art
To cure thy soul-sick king.

Arch. 'Tis done already.

Methought, in shapeless shapes of nightly dreams.

EXERCISE XCIV.

Wherefore pay you
This adoration to a sinful creature?
I am flesh and blood, as you are, sensible
Of heat and cold, as much a slave unto
The tyranny of my passions as the meanest
Of my poor subjects. The proud attributes,
By oil-tongued flattery imposed upon us,
As sacred, glorious, high, invincible,
The deputy of heaven, and in that Omnipotent, with all false titles else,
Coin'd to abuse our frailty, though compounded,
And by the breath of sycophants applied,
Cure not the least fit of an ague in us,
We may give poor men riches, confer honours

On undeservers, raise or ruin such
As are beneath us, and, with this puff'd up,
Ambition would persuade us to forget
That we are men: but He that sits above us,
And to whom, at our utmost rate, we are
But pageant properties, derides our weakness:
In me, to whom you kneel, 'tis most apparent.
Can I call back yesterday, with all their aids
That bow unto my sceptre? or restore
My mind to that tranquillity and peace
It then enjoyed?—Can I make Eudocia chaste,
Or vile Paulinus honest?

With this puff'd up, &c., ambition would wish ὅγκον ἐξάραι φρενῶν. Pageant properties, νήπιον ἄθυρμα. Make chaste, ἀφαγνίζειν. Eudocia, Εὐδοξία.

EXERCISE XCV.

If it be true,
Dread sir, as 'tis affirmed, that every soil,
Where he is well, is to a valiant man
His natural country, reason may assure me
I should fix here, where blessings beyond hope,
From you, the spring, like rivers flow unto me.
If wealth were my ambition, by the queen
I am made rich already, to the amazement
Of all that see, or shall hereafter read
The story of her bounty; if to spend
The remnant of my life in deeds of arms,
No region is more fertile of good knights,
From whom my knowledge that way may be better'd,

Than this, your warlike Hungary; if favour,
Or grace in court could take me, by your grant,
Far, far beyond my merit, I may make
In yours a free election; but alas! sir,
I am not mine own, but my destiny
(Which I cannot resist) forced to prefer
My country's smoke before the glorious fire
With which your bounties warm me. All I ask, sir,
Though I cannot be ignorant it must relish
Of foul ingratitude, is your gracious license
For my departure.

Hungary, Ύγρία. It must relish of foul ingratitude, I may seem μ $\eta$  είδέναι τ $\eta$ ν δικαίαν χάριν, as some bad man.

EXERCISE XCVI.

I come not, Emperor, to invade thy mercy
By fawning on thy fortune; nor bring with me
Excuses or denials. I profess,
And with a good man's confidence, even this instant
That I am in thy power, I was thine enemy;
Thy deadly and vowed enemy: one that wished
Confusion to thy person and estates;
And with my utmost powers and deepest counsels,
Had they been truly follow'd, further'd it.
Nor will I now, although my neck were under
The hangman's axe, with one poor syllable
Confess, but that I honour'd the French king
More than myself and all men.

Now give me leave,
My hate against thyself and love to him
Freely acknowledged, to give up the reasons
That made me so affected:—In my wants
I ever found him faithful; had supplies
Of men and monies from him; and my hopes,
Quite sunk, were, by his grace, buoy'd up again:
He was, indeed, to me, as my good angel
To guard me from all dangers. I dare speak,
Nay, must and will, his praise now, in as high
And loud a key as when he was thy equal.
The benefits he sow'd in me met not Unthankful ground, but yielded him his own
With fair increase, and I still glory in it.

Invade, ἐφορμεῖν. I was thine enemy, thy deadly and vowed enemy, I was ill-affected to thee then, nay διώμοτος that I would be ill-affected to thee ever. Neck under hangman's axe, sword about to fall on neck.

EXERCISE XCVII.

What have I

Omitted, in the power of flesh and blood, Even in the birth to strangle the designs of This hell-bred wolf, my son? alas! my lords, I am no God, nor like him could foresee His cruel thoughts and cursed purposes:

Nor would the sun at my command forbear To make his progress to the other world, Affording to it one continued light.

Nor could my breath disperse those foggy mists, Cover'd with which, and darkness of the night,

Their navy, undiscern'd, without resistance, Beset our harbour; make not that my fault, Which you in justice must ascribe to fortune. But if that, nor my former acts, nor what I have deliver'd, can prevail with you To make good my integrity and truth, Rip up this bosom, and pluck out the heart That hath been ever loyal.

Thou searcher of men's hearts,
And such defender of the innocent,
(My other trying sins awhile not look'd on,)
If I in this am guilty, strike me dead,
Or by some unexpected means confirm
I am accus'd unjustly.

Flesh and blood, men. Strangle,  $\dot{\alpha}\pi\alpha\mu\beta\lambda\hat{\omega}\sigma\alpha\iota$ . In the birth, coming to light. Hell-bred,  $\nu\epsilon\rho\tau\epsilon\rho\sigma$ s.

EXERCISE XCVIII.

ANAPAESTS OR IAMBICS.

Howl ye; for the day of the Lord is at hand;
It shall come as a destruction from the Almighty;
Therefore shall all hands be faint,
And every man's heart shall melt;
And they shall be afraid:
Pangs and sorrows shall take hold of them;
They shall be in pain as a woman that travaileth:
They shall be amazed one at another;
Their faces shall be as flames.
Behold, the day of the Lord cometh,
Cruel both with wrath and fierce anger,
To lay the land desolate;

And he shall destroy the scorners thereof out of it. For the stars of heaven and the constellations thereof Shall not give their light;

The sun shall be darkened in his going forth,

And the moon shall not cause her light to shine.

A woman that travaileth, λεχώ.

EXERCISE XCIX.

ANAPAESTS OR IAMBICS.

They that go down to the sea in ships,

And do business in great waters;
These men see the works of the Lord,
And his wonders in the deep.
For at his word the stormy wind ariseth,
Which lifteth up the waves thereof.
They are carried up to the heaven, and down again to the deep:
Their soul melteth away because of their trouble.
They reel to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man,
And are at their wits' end.
So when they cry unto the Lord in their trouble,
He delivereth them out of their distress.
For he maketh the storm to cease,

And so he bringeth them to the haven where they would

Do business, σπεύδειν χρήματα.

So that the waves thereof are still.

Then are they glad because they are at rest

EXERCISE C.

Cha. Again most welcome.

Yet, give me leave to wish (and pray you excuse me, For I must use the freedom I was born with)

The Great Duke's pleasure had commanded you

To my poor house, upon some other service,

Not this you are designed to: but his will

Must be obey'd, howe'er it ravish from me

The happy conversation of one

As dear to me as the old Romans held

Their household Lars, whom they believed had power

To bless and guard their families.

Con. 'Tis received so

On my part, Signior; nor can the duke
But promise to himself as much as may
Be hoped for from a nephew. And 'twere weakness
In any man to doubt that Giovanni,
Train'd up by your experience and care
In all those arts peculiar and proper
To future greatness, of necessity
Must in his actions, being grown a man,
Make good the princely education
Which he derived from you.

Cha. I have discharg'd
To the utmost of my power, the trust the duke
Committed to me, and with joy perceive
The seed of my endeavours was not sown
Upon the barren sands, but fruitful glebe,
Which yields a large increase: my noble charge,
By his sharp wit and pregnant apprehension,
Instructing those that teach him; making use,

Not in a vulgar and pedantic form,
Of what's read to him, but 'tis straight digested,
And truly made his own. His grave discourse,
In one no more indebted unto years,
Amazes such as hear him: horsemanship,
And skill to use his weapon, are by practice
Familiar to him: as for knowledge in Music, he needs it not, it being born with him;
All that he speaks being with such grace deliver'd,
That it makes perfect harmony.

Con. You describe

A wonder to me.

Cha. Sir, he is no less:

And that there may be nothing wanting that May render him complete, the sweetness of His disposition so wins on all
Appointed to attend him, that they are Rivals, even in the coarsest office, who Shall get precedency to do him service;
Which they esteem a greater happiness
Than if they had been fashion'd and built up
To hold command o'er others.

The great Duke's pleasure...service, that you had come to this my rustic house, bringing some other message from the king. Household Lars, ἐστιοῦχος θεός. Giovanni, this youth. Make good, &c. δεῖγμα φαίνειν of your good education by deeds, doing what beseems princes.

DUKE FREDERICK. ROSALIND. CELIA.

Duke. Mistress, despatch you with your safest haste, And get you from our court.

Ros. Me, uncle?

Duke. You, cousin;
Within these ten days if that thou be'st found
So near our public court as twenty miles,
Thou diest for it.

Ros.

I do beseech your grace,

Let me the knowledge of my fault bear with me:

If with myself I hold intelligence,

Or have acquaintance with mine own desires;

If that I do not dream, or be not frantic,

(As I do trust I am not) then, dear uncle,

Never so much as in a thought unborn,

Did I offend your highness.

Duke. Thus do all traitors:

If 'their purgation did consist in words,

They are as innocent as grace itself:—

Let it suffice thee, that I trust thee not.

Ros. Yet your mistrust cannot make me a traitor; Tell me, whereon the likelihood depends.

Ros. So was I, when your highness took his dukedom; So was I, when your highness banish'd him; Treason is not inherited, my lord; Or if we did derive it from our friends, What's that to me? my father was no traitor; Then, good my liege, mistake me not so much, To think my poverty is treacherous.

Cel. Dear sovereign, hear me speak.

Duke. Ay, Celia; we stay'd her for your sake, Else had she with her father ranged along.

Cel. I did not then entreat to have her stay,
It was your pleasure, and your own remorse;
I was too young that time to value her,
But now I know her: if she be a traitor,
Why so am I; we still have slept together,
Rose at instant, learn'd, play'd, eat together;
And wheresoe'er we went, like Juno's swans
Still we went coupled, and inseparable.

Duke. She is too subtle for thee; and her smoothness,
Her very silence, and her patience,
Speak to the people, and they pity her.
Thou art a fool: she robs thee of thy name;
And thou wilt shew more bright, and seem more virtuous,

When she is gone: then open not thy lips; Firm and irrevocable is my doom
Which I have pass'd upon her; she is banish'd.

Cel. Pronounce that sentence then on me, my liege; I cannot live out of her company.

Cel. No? Hath not? Rosalind lacks then the love Which teacheth thee that thou and I am one: Shall we be sunder'd? Shall we part, sweet girl? No; let my father seek another heir. Therefore devise with me, how we may fly, Whither to go, and what to bear with us: And do not seek to take your change upon you, To bear your griefs yourself, and leave me out; For, by this heaven, now at our sorrows pale, Say what thou canst, I'll go along with thee.

FIRST LORD. DUKE SENIOR.

1st Lord. To-day, my lord of Amiens, and myself, Did steal behind him, as he lay along
Under an oak, whose antique root peeps out
Upon the brook that brawls along this wood:
To the which place a poor sequester'd stag,
That from the hunter's aim had ta'en a hurt,
Did come to languish: and, indeed, my lord,
The wretched animal heav'd forth such groans,
That their discharge did stretch his leathern coat
Almost to bursting; and the big round tears
Cours'd one another down his innocent nose
In piteous chase: and thus the hairy fool,
Much marked of the melancholy Jaques,
Stood on the extremest verge of the swift brook,
Augmenting it with tears.

Duke S. But what said Jaques?

Did he not moralize this spectacle?

1st Lord. O yes! into a thousand similes.
First, for his weeping in the needless stream.
Poor deer! quoth he, thou mak'st a testament
As worldlings do, giving thy sum of more
To that which had too much. Then, being alone,
Left and abandon'd of his velvet friends:
'Tis right! quoth he; thus misery doth part

But, sure, he's proud: and yet his pride becomes him;
He'll make a proper man: The best thing in him
Is his complexion; and faster than his tongue
Did make offence, his eye did heal it up.
He is not very tall; yet for his years he's tall:
His leg is but so so; and yet 'tis well:
There was a pretty redness in his lip;
A little riper, and more lusty red
Than that mix'd in his cheek; 'twas just the difference

There be some women, Sylvius, had they mark'd him In parcels as I did, would have gone near

To fall in love with him: but, for my part,
I love him not, nor hate him not; and yet
I have more cause to hate him than to love him:
For what had he to do to chide at me?

He said, mine eyes were black, and my hair black,
And, now I am remember'd, scorn'd at me:
I marvel, why I answer'd not again:
But that's all one; omittance is no quittance.
I'll write to him a very taunting letter,
And thou shalt bear it: wilt thou, Sylvius?

OLIVER. CELIA.

Oli. When last the young Orlando parted from you,
He left a promise to return again
Within an hour; and pacing through the forest,
Chewing the food of sweet and bitter fancy,
Lo, what befel; he threw his eye aside,
And, mark, what object did present itself!
Under an oak, whose boughs were moss'd with age,

And high top bald with dry antiquity,

A wretched, ragged man, o'ergrown with hair,

Lay sleeping on his back: about his neck

A green and gilded snake had wreath'd itself, Who with her head, nimble in threats, approach'd The opening of his mouth; but suddenly Seeing Orlando, it unlink'd itself, And with indented glides did slip away Into a bush: under which bush's shade, A lioness, with udders all drawn dry, Lay couching, head on ground, with cat-like watch When that the sleeping man should stir: for 'tis The royal disposition of that beast, To prey on nothing, that doth seem as dead: This seen, Orlando did approach the man, And found it was his brother, his elder brother. O, I have heard him speak of that same brother;

Cel. O, I have heard him speak of that same brother;
And he did render him the most unnatural
That lived 'mongst men.

And well he might do so; For well I know he was unnatural.

Ant. But little; I am arm'd, and well prepar'd.—

Of such a misery doth she cut me off.
Commend me to your honorable wife:
Tell her the process of Antonio's end,
Say, how I loved you, speak me fair in death:
And, when the tale is told, bid her be judge,
Whether Bassanio had not once a love.
Repent not you that you shall lose your friend,
And he repents not that he pays your debt;
For, if the Jew doth cut but deep enough,
I'll pay it instantly with all my heart.
Antonio, I am married to a wife.

Which is as dear to me as life itself;
But life itself, my wife, and all the world
Are not with me esteemed above thy life;
I would lose all, aye, sacrifice them all
Here to this devil, to deliver you.

DUKE. ÆGEON.

Ege. We came aboard:

A league from Epidamnum had we sail'd,
Before the always wind-obeying deep
Gave any tragic instance of our harm;
But longer did we not retain much hope:
For what obscured light the heavens did grant
Did but convey unto our fearful minds
A doubtful warrant of immediate death:
Which though myself would gladly have embrac'd,

Yet the incessant weepings of my wife, Weeping before for what she saw must come, εξ ης βραδίστης ζημίας τε καὶ πάθους τοσοῦδε μ' εξερρύσατ' εὐμενης μόρος. χαίρειν κέλευε σην δάμαρτ' εμοῦ πάρα, λέγων δ' εμ' οἷον εἰς βίου προύβην τέλος, μή νιν καλύψης ως σ' αεί ποτ' ηγάπων, αλλ' εὐλόγησον τάμὰ καὶ τεθνηκότος. κέλευε δ' αὐτην πάντα δη πεπυσμένην εἴ τίς ποτ' ην σοὶ πανδίκως κρίνειν φίλος. καὶ μη μετάλγει τοῦ φίλου τητώμενος, ὑς οὐ μεταλγεῖ ταῦθ' ὑπὲρ σέθεν τίνων ἐπεὶ, βαθεῖαν οὖτος εἰ τεμεῖ τομήν, τὸ πῶν ἐκούση καρδία λύσω χρέος.

And pitcous plainings of the pretty babes That mourn'd for fashion, ignorant what to fear, Forc'd me to seek delays for them and me. And this it was-for other means was none. The sailors sought for safety by our boat, And left the ship, then sinking-ripe, to us. My wife, more careful for the latter-born, Had fasten'd him unto a small spare mast, Such as sea-faring men provide for storms: To him one of the other twins was bound, Whilst I had been like heedful of the other. The children thus dispos'd, my wife and I, Fixing our eyes on whom our care was fix'd, Fastened ourselves at either end the mast; And floating straight, obedient to the stream, Were carried towards Corinth, as we thought. At length the sun, gazing upon the earth, Dispers'd those vapours that offended us: And by the benefit of his wish'd light The seas wax'd calm, and we discovered Two ships from far making amain to us, Of Corinth that, of Epidaurus this. But ere they came—O let me say no more! Gather the sequel from what went before.

Duke. Nay, forward, old man, do not break off so, For we may pity, though not pardon thee.

Eye. Oh, had the gods done so, I had not now Worthily term'd them merciless to us!

For ere the ships could meet by twice five leagues,

We were encounter'd by a mighty rock;
Which being violently borne upon,
Our helpful ship was splitted in the midst:
So that in this unjust divorce of us,
Fortune had left to both of us alike
What to delight in—what to sorrow for.
Her part, poor soul! seeming as burdened
With lesser weight, but not with lesser woe,
Was carried with more speed before the wind;
And in our sight they three were taken up
By fishermen of Corinth, as we thought.
At length another ship had seiz'd on us;
And knowing whom it was their hap to save,
Gave helpful welcome to their shipwreck'd guests;

And would have reft the fishers of their prey,
Had not their bark been very slow of sail,
And therefore homeward did they bend their course

Thus have you heard me sever'd from my bliss; That by misfortunes was my life prolong'd, To tell sad stories of my own mishaps.

Heaven pardon thee! yet let me wonder, Harry, At thy affections, which do hold a wing Quite from the flight of all thy ancestors:

Opinion, that did help me to the crown, Had still kept loyal to possession; And left me to reputeless banishment, A fellow of no mark nor likelihood. By being seldom seen, I could not stir. But, like a comet, I was wonder'd at: That men would tell their children, This is he; Others would say, Where, -which is Bolingbroke? And then I stole all courtesy from heaven, And dress'd myself in such humility, That I did pluck allegiance from men's hearts, Loud shouts and salutations from their mouths, Even in the presence of the crowned king. Thus did I keep my person fresh and new; My presence like a robe pontifical, Ne'er seen, but wonder'd at: and so my state, Seldom, but sumptuous, showed like a feast; And won, by rareness, such solemnity. The skipping king, he ambled up and down With shallow jesters, and rash bavin* wits, Soon kindled, and soon burned; carded his state; Mingled his royalty with capering fools; Had his great name profaned with their scorns: And gave his countenance, against his name, To laugh at gibing boys, and stand the push

Of every beardless vain comparative: Grew a companion to the common streets. Enfeoff'd himself to popularity: That being daily swallow'd by men's eyes, They surfeited with honey; and began To loathe the taste of sweetness, whereof a little More than a little is by much too much. So, when he had occasion to be seen, He was but as the cuckoo is in June. Heard, not regarded; seen, but with such eyes, As, sick and blunted with community, Afford no extraordinary gaze, Such as is bent on sun-like majesty, When it shines seldom in admiring eyes: But rather drowz'd, and hung their eye-lids down, Slept in his face, and render'd such aspect As cloudy men use to their adversaries; Being with his presence glutted, gorg'd, and full. And in that very line, Harry, standest thou: For thou hast lost thy princely privilege With vile participation; not an eye But is aweary of thy common sight, Save mine, which hath desired to see thee more; Which now doth that I would not have it do, Make blind itself with foolish tenderness.

ΑΝΑΞ. Ύμεις μεν οι παρόντες ομμάτων φόβω

You are, I think, assured I love you not.

- C. J. I am assured, if I be measured rightly, Your majesty hath no just cause to hate me.
- King. No!

  How might a prince of my great hopes forget
  So great indignities you laid upon me?

  What! rate, rebuke, and roughly send to prison
  The immediate heir of England! was this easy?

  May this be wash'd in Lethe, and forgotten?
- C, J. I then did use the person of your father; The image of his power lay then in me; And in the administration of his law, Whiles I was busy for the commonwealth, Your highness pleased to forget my place, The majesty and power of law and justice, The image of the king whom I presented, And struck me in my very seat of judgment; Whereon, as an offender to your father, I gave bold way to my authority, And did commit you. If the deed were ill, Be you contented, wearing now the garland, To have a son set your decrees at nought; To pluck down justice from your awful bench; To trip the course of law; and blunt the sword That guards the peace and safety of your person; Nay, more, to spurn at your most royal image, And mock your workings in a second body.

Question your royal thoughts, make the case yours;

Be now the father, and propose a son: Hear your own dignity so much profaned, See your most dreadful laws so loosely slighted, Behold yourself so by a son disdain'd; And then imagine me taking your part, And, in your power, soft silencing your son: After this cold considerance, sentence me; And, as you are a king, speak in your state, What I have done that misbecame my place, My person, or my liege's sovereignty. King. You are right, Justice, and you weigh this well, Therefore still bear the balance and the sword:

And I do wish your honours may increase, Till you do live to see a son of mine Offend you, and obey you, as I did: So shall I live to speak my father's words; "Happy am I, that have a man so bold,

KING HENRY.

I know thee not, old man: fall to thy prayers; How ill white hairs become a fool and jester! I have long dream'd of such a kind of man, So surfeit-swell'd, so old, and so profane; But, being awake, I do despise my dream. Make less thy body hence, and more thy grace; Leave gormandizing; know, the grave doth gape For thee thrice wider than for other men:-Reply not to me with a fool-born jest; Presume not that I am the thing I was: For heaven doth know, so shall the world perceive, That I have turn'd away my former self; So will I those that kept me company. When thou dost hear I am as I have been. Approach me; and thou shalt be as thou wast, The tutor and the feeder of my riots. Till then, I banish thee, on pain of death,— As I have done the rest of my misleaders, -Not to come near our person by ten mile. For competence of life, I will allow you, That lack of means enforce you not to evil; And, as we hear you do reform yourselves, We will, -according to your strength, and qualities, -Give you advancement.—Be it your charge, my lord,

CHORUS.

Now entertain conjecture of a time, When creeping murmur, and the poring dark, Fills the wide vessel of the universe. From camp to camp, through the foul womb of night, The hum of either army stilly sounds, That the fixed sentinels almost receive The secret whispers of each other's watch: Fire answers fire: and through their paly flames Each battle sees the other's umber'd face: Steed threatens steed, in high and boastful neighs Piercing the night's dull ear; and from the tents, The armourers, accomplishing the knights, With busy hammers closing rivets up, Give dreadful note of preparation. The country cocks do crow, the clocks do toll, And the third hour of drowsy morning name. Proud of their numbers, and secure in soul, The confident and over-lusty French Do the low-rated English play at dice; And chide the cripple tardy-gaited night, Who, like a foul and ugly witch, doth limp

So tediously away. The poor condemned English. Like sacrifices, by their watchful fires Sit patiently, and inly ruminate The morning's danger; and their gesture sad, Investing lank-lean cheeks and war-worn coats. Presenteth them unto the gazing moon So many horrid ghosts. O, now, who will behold The royal captain of this ruin'd band, Walking from watch to watch, from tent to tent, Let him cry,—Praise and glory on his head! For forth he goes, and visits all his host: Bids them good-morrow, with a modest smile: And calls them-brothers, friends, and countrymen. Upon his royal face there is no note, How dread an army hath enrounded him: Nor doth he dedicate one jot of colour Unto the weary and all-watched night: But freshly looks, and overbears attaint, With cheerful semblance and sweet majesty; That every wretch, pining and pale before, Beholding him, plucks comfort from his looks: A largess universal, like the sun, His liberal eye doth give to every one, Thawing cold fear.

Aye, Margaret; my heart is drown'd with grief. Whose flood begins to flow within mine eyes; My body round engirt with misery; For what's more miserable than discontent? Ah, uncle Humphrey! in thy face I see The map of honour, truth, and loyalty; And yet, good Humphrey, is the hour to come, That e'er I prov'd thee false, or fear'd thy faith. What low'ring star now envies thy estate, That these great lords, and Margaret our Queen, Do seek subversion of thy harmless life? Thou never didst them wrong, nor no man wrong: And as the butcher takes away the calf. And binds the wretch, and beats it when it strays, Bearing it to the bloody slaughter-house; Even so, remorseless, have they borne him hence. And as the dam runs lowing up and down, Looking the way her harmless young one went. And can do nought but wail her darling's loss: Even so myself bewails good Gloster's case With sad unhelpful tears; and with dimm'd eyes Look after him, and cannot do him good; So mighty are his vowed enemies. His fortunes I will weep; and 'twixt each groan Say-Who's a traitor? Gloster he is none.

KING. WARWICK. SUFFOLK.

My thoughts, that labour to persuade my soul,
Some violent hands were laid on Humphrey's life!
If my suspect be false, forgive me, God!
For judgment only doth belong to thee.
Fain would I go to chafe his paly lips
With twenty thousand kisses, and to drain
Upon his face an ocean of salt tears;
To tell my love unto his dumb deaf trunk,
And with my fingers feel his hand unfeeling;
But all in vain are these mean obsequies;
And, to survey his dead and earthly image,
What were it but to make my sorrow greater?

War. Come hither, gracious sovereign, view this body.

King. That is to see how deep my grave is made;

For, with his soul, fled all my worldly solace

For seeing him I see my life in death.

War. As surely as my soul intends to live

With that dread King, that took our state upon him

To free us from his Father's wrathful curse, I do believe that violent hands were laid Upon the life of this thrice-famed duke.

Suff. A dreadful oath, sworn with a solemn tongue.

What instance gives Lord Warwick for his vow?

War. See, how the blood is settled in his face!

Oft have I seen a timely-parted ghost,

Of ashy semblance, meagre, pale, and bloodless,

Being all descended to the labouring heart;

Who, in the conflict that it holds with death,

Attracts the same for aidance 'gainst the enemy;

Which with the heart there cools, and ne'er returneth

To blush and beautify the cheek again.

But, see, his face is black, and full of blood;

His eyeballs further out than when he liv'd,

Staring full ghastly, like a strangled man;

His hair uprear'd, his nostrils stretch'd with struggling;

His hands abroad display'd, as one that grasp'd And tugg'd for life, and was by strength subdued. Look, on the sheets, his hair, you see, is sticking; His well-proportioned beard made rough and rugged,

Like to the summer's corn by tempest lodg'd. It cannot be, but he was murder'd here; The least of all these signs were probable.

Turn back, and fly, like ships before the wind, Or lambs pursued by hunger-starved wolves; My sons-God knows what hath bechanced them: But this I know,—they have demean'd themselves Like men born to renown, by life, or death. Three times did Richard make a lane to me; And thrice cried-"Courage, father! fight it out!" And full as oft came Edward to my side With purple falchion, painted to the hilt In blood of those that had encounter'd him; And when the hardiest warriors did retire. Richard cried-"Charge, and give no ground!" And cried-"A crown, or else a glorious tomb! A sceptre, or an earthly sepulchre!" With this we charg'd again: but out, alas, We bodg'd again: as I have seen a swan With bootless labour swim against the tide, And spend her strength with overmatching waves. Ah, hark! the fatal followers do pursue, And I am faint, and cannot fly their fury; And were I strong, I would not shun their fury. The sands are number'd that make up my life: Here must I stay, and here my life must end. SHAKESPEARE, King Henry VI. Part III. Act I. Sc. 4.

How ill-beseeming is it in thy sex,

To triumph, like an Amazonian trull,

Upon their woes, whom fortune captivates!

But that thy face is, vizor-like, unchanging,

Made impudent with use of evil deeds,

I would assay, proud queen, to make thee blush:

To tell thee whence thou camest, of whom derived,

Were shame enough to shame thee, wert thou not shameless.

Thy father bears the type of king of Naples, Of both the Sicils, and Jerusalem; Yet not so wealthy as an English veoman. Hath that poor monarch taught thee to insult? It needs not, nor it boots thee not, proud queen; Unless the adage must be verified,-That beggars, mounted, run their horse to death. 'Tis beauty that doth oft make women proud; But God, He knows, thy share thereof is small: 'Tis virtue that doth make them most admired; The contrary doth make thee wonder'd at: 'Tis government, that makes them seem divine: The want thereof makes thee abominable: Thou art as opposite to every good, As the antipodes are unto us, Or as the south to the septentrion. O, tiger's heart, wrapp'd in a woman's hide! How couldst thou drain the life-blood of the child, To bid the father wipe his eyes withal, And yet be seen to bear a woman's face?

CASCA. CASSIUS.

Casc. Cassius, what night is this?

Cass. A very pleasing night to honest men.

Casc. Who ever knew the heavens menace so?

Cass. Those that have known the earth so full of faults.

For my part, I have walk'd about the streets,

Submitting me unto the perilous night;

And thus unbraced, Casca, as you see,

Have bar'd my bosom to the thunder-stone.

And when the cross blue lightning seem'd to open

The breast of heaven, I did present myself

Even in the aim and very flash of it.

Case. But wherefore did you so much tempt the heavens!

It is the part of men to fear and tremble,

When the most mighty gods, by tokens, send

Such dreadful heralds to astonish us.

Cass. You are dull, Casca; and those sparks of life
That should be in a Roman, you do want,
Or else you use not: you look pale, and gaze,
And put on fear, and cast yourself in wonder,
To see the strange impatience of the heavens;
But if you would consider the true cause,
Why all these fires, why all these gliding ghosts,
Why birds, and beasts, from quality and kind;
Why old men, fools, and children calculate;
Why all these things change from their ordinance,
Their natures, and pre-formed faculties,

Five days we do allot thee, for provision

To shield thee from diseases of the world;

And, on the sixth, to turn thy hated back

Upon our kingdom: if, on the tenth day following,

The moment is thy death. Away! by Jupiter, This shall not be revok'd.

Kent. Fare thee well, king: since thus thou wilt appear;
Freedom lives hence, and banishment is here.
The gods to their dear shelter take thee, maid,
That justly think'st, and hast most rightly said:
And your large speeches may your deeds approve,

That good effects may spring from words of love.—

Thus Kent, O princes, bids you all adieu;
He'll shape his old course in a country new.
Shakespeare, King Lear, Act i. Sc. 1.

LADY MONTAGUE. BENVOLIO. MONTAGUE.

L. Mon. O where is Romeo? Saw you him to-day?

Right glad I am he was not at this fray.

Ben. Madam, an hour before the worshipp'd sun
Peer'd forth the golden window of the east,
A troubled mind drove me to walk abroad;
Where—underneath the grove of sycamore,

That westward rooteth from the city's side—So early walking did I see your son:
Towards him I made, but he was 'ware of me,
And stole into the covert of the wood.
I, measuring his affections by my own—
That most are busied when they're most alone—
Pursued my humour, not pursuing his,
And gladly shunn'd who gladly fled from me.
Many a morning hath he there been seen,
With teams augmenting the fresh morning's days

Mon. Many a morning hath he there been seen,
With tears augmenting the fresh morning's dew,
Adding to clouds more clouds with his deep sighs:
But all so soon as the all-cheering sun
Should in the furthest east begin to draw
The shady curtains from Aurora's bed,
Away from light steals home my heavy son,
And private in his chamber pens himself;
Shuts up his windows, locks fair daylight out,
And makes himself an artificial night:
Black and portentous must this humour prove,
Unless good counsel may the cause remove.

Ben. My noble uncle, do you know the cause?

Mon. I neither know it, nor can learn of him.

Ben. Have you importun'd him by any means?

Mon. Both by myself and many other friends;
But he, his own affection's counsellor,
Is to himself—I will not say, how true—
But to himself so secret and so close,
So far from sounding and discovery,

Ere he can spread his sweet leaves to the air,

Or dedicate his beauty to the sun.

We would as willingly give cure, as know.
Shakespeare, Romeo and Juliet, Act I. Sc. 1.

JULIET. I have a faint cold fear thrills through my veins.

That almost freezes up the heat of life.

I'll call them back again to comfort me:—

Nurse!—What should she do here?

My dismal scene I needs must act alone.—

Come, phial.—

What if this mixture do not work at all?

Must I of force be married to the county?

No, no;—this shall forbid it;—lie thou there.—

[Laying down a dagger.]

What if it be a poison, which the friar Subtly hath minister'd to have me dead; Lest in this marriage he should be dishonour'd, Because he married me before to Romeo? I fear it is; and yet, methinks, it should not, For he hath still been tried a holy man; I will not entertain so bad a thought.— How if, when I am laid into the tomb, I wake before the time that Romeo

Come to redeem me? There's a fearful point! Shall I not then be stifled in the vault, To whose foul mouth no healthsome air breathes in. And there die strangled ere my Romeo comes? Or, if I live, is it not very like, The horrible conceit of death and night, Together with the terror of the place— As in a vault, an ancient receptacle, Where, for these many hundred years, the bones Of all my buried ancestors are pack'd; Where bloody Tybalt, yet but green in earth. Lies festering in his shroud; where, as they say, At some hours in the night spirits resort :-Alack, alack! is it not like, that I. So early waking,—what with loathsome smells, And shrieks like mandrakes' torn out of the earth, That living mortals, hearing them, run mad;-O! if I wake, shall I not be distraught, Environed with all these hideous fears? And madly play with my forefathers' joints? And pluck the mangled Tybalt from his shroud? And, in this rage, with some great kinsman's bone, As with a club, dash out my desperate brains? O! look! methinks I see my cousin's ghost Seeking out Romeo, that did spit his body Upon a rapier's point:—stay, Tybalt, stay!— Romeo, I come! This do I drink to thee. O my love! my wife! Death, that has suck'd the honey of thy breath, Hath had no power vet upon thy beauty: Thou art not conquer'd; beauty's ensign vet Is crimson in thy lips and in thy cheeks, And death's pale flag is not advanced there. -Tybalt, liest thou there in thy bloody sheet? O what more favour can I do to thee, Than with that hand that cut thy youth in twain, To sunder his that was thine enemy? Forgive me, cousin !—Ah! dear Juliet, Why art thou yet so fair? shall I believe That unsubstantial death is amorous; And that the lean abhorred monster keeps Thee here in dark to be his paramour? For fear of that I will stay with thee; And never from this palace of dim night Depart again; here, here will I remain With worms that are thy chambermaids; O here Will I set up my everlasting rest, And shake the yoke of inauspicious stars From this world-wearied flesh.—Eyes, look your last! Arms, take your last embrace! and lips, O you The doors of breath, seal with a righteous kiss A dateless bargain to engrossing death:

Yet here, Laertes! aboard, aboard, for shame;
The wind sits in the shoulder of your sail,
And you are staid for:—there,—my blessing with you;

And these few precepts on thy memory
See thou character. Give thy thoughts no tongue,
Nor any unproportion'd thought his act.
Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.
The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel;
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new hatch'd unfledged comrade. Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel: but, being in,
Bear it that the opposer may beware of thee.
Give every man thine ear, but few thy voice:
Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgment.

A trifle from me I am weary of,
What is this life to me? not worth a thought;
Or, if it be esteem'd, 'tis that I lose it
To win a better: even thy malice serves
To me but as a ladder to mount up
To such a height of happiness, where I shall Look down with scorn on thee, and on the world;

Where, circled with true pleasures, placed above. The reach of death or time, 'twill be my glory

To think at what an easy price I bought it.

Assurance of redress! where now, Romont,
The damn'd with more ease may ascend from hell,
Than we arrive at her. One Cerberus there
Forbids the passage, in our courts a thousand,
As loud and fertile-headed; and the client
That wants the sops to fill their ravenous throats,

Attempt impossibilities; you, friend, being Too well acquainted with my dearth of means
To make my entrance that way?

Briefly thus then,
Since I must speak for all.—Your tyranny
Drew us from our obedience. Happy those times
When lords were styl'd fathers of families,
And not imperious masters; when they number'd
Their servants almost equal with their sons,
Or one degree beneath them; when their labours
Were cherish'd and rewarded, and a period
Set to their sufferings; when they did not press
Their duties or their wills, beyond the power
And strength of their performance; all things order'd
With such decorum, as wise law-makers
From each well-govern'd private house derived
The perfect model of a commonwealth.

Humanity then lodg'd i' th' hearts of men. And thankful masters carefully provided For creatures wanting reason. The noble horse. That in his fiery youth from his wide nostrils Neigh'd courage to his rider, and broke through Groves of opposed pikes, bearing his lord Safe to triumphant victory, old or wounded Was set at liberty or freed from service. The Athenian mules that from the quarry drew Marble, hew'd for the temples of the gods, The great work ended, were dismiss'd and fed At the public cost; nay, faithful dogs have found Their sepulchres; but man to man more cruel, Appoints no end to th' suff'rings of his slave; Since pride stepp'd in and riot, and o'erturn'd This goodly frame of concord, teaching masters To glory in the abuse of such as are Brought under their command; who, grown unuseful.

Practis'd on us with rigour; this hath forc'd us To shake our heavy yokes off; and, if redress Of these just grievances be not granted us, We'll right ourselves, and by strong hand defend What we are now possess'd of.

PHII ASTER.

I have a boy, Sent by the gods, I hope, to this intent, Not yet seen in the court. Hunting the buck. I found him sitting by a fountain's side, Of which he borrowed some to quench his thirst, And paid the nymph again as much in tears. A garland lay him by, made by himself, Of many several flowers, bred in the bay, Stuck in that mystic order, that the rareness Delighted me: but ever when he turn'd His tender eyes upon 'em, he would weep, As if he meant to make 'em grow again, Seeing such pretty helpless innocence Dwell in his face, I asked him all his story. He told me that his parents gentle died, Leaving him to the mercy of the fields, Which gave him roots; and of the crystal springs, Which did not stop their courses; and the sun, Which still, he thank'd him, yielded him his light. Then took he up his garland, and did shew What every flower, as country people hold, Did signify; and how all, order'd thus, Express'd his grief: and, to my thoughts, did read The prettiest lecture of his country art That could be wish'd: so that, methought, I could

Cambridge Greek and Latin Terts.

Carefully reprinted from the best Editions.

This series is intended to supply for the use of Schools and Students cheap and accurate editions of the Classics, which shall be superior in mechanical execution to the small German editions now current in this country, and more convenient in form.

The texts of the "Bibliotheca Classica" and "Grammar-School Classics," so far as they have been published, will be adopted. These editions have taken their place amongst scholars as valuable contributions to the Classical Literature of this country, and are admitted to be good examples of the judicious and practical nature of English scholarship; and as the editors have formed their texts from a careful examination of the best editions extant, it is believed that no texts better for general use can be found.

The volumes are well printed at the Cambridge University Press, in a 16mo. size, and are issued at short intervals.

The object of the work is to present the subject simply and concisely, leaving illustration and explanation to the Teacher, whose freedom text-books too often hamper. Without a Tea ther however this work will possibly be found no harder to master than others.

As far as practicable, exercises, largely numerical, are given on the dif-ferent Theorems, that the pupil may learn at once the value and use of what he studies.

Hypothetical constructions are throughout employed. Important Theorems are proved in more than one way, lest the pupil restin words rather than things. Problems are regarded chiefly as exercises on the Theorems. Short Appendices are added on the Analysis of Reasoning and the Application of Arithmetic and Algebra to Geometry.

DETAILED ACCOUNT OF THE SEVERAL COLLEGES.

The new Edition, adapted to the recent alterations, is now in preparation, and will it is hoped be issued in the autumn.

"Partly with the view of assisting parents, guardians, schoolmasters, and students intending to enter their names at the University—partly also for the benefit of undergraduates themselves—a very complete, though concise, volume has just been issued, which leaves little or nothing to be desired. For lucid arrangement, and a rigid adherence to what is positively useful, we know of few manuals that could compete with this Student's Guide. It reflects no little credit on the University to which it supplies an unpretending, but complete, introduction."—SATURDAY REVIEW.
